Andrews quitting as GOP chairman; ponder successor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Andrews, Ohio's Republican Party chairman for eight years, Sunday night confirmed rumors he would resign to accept a job in industry.

"I will be 54-years-old and have been in politics for 18-years and always planned to eventually return to private industry and I think this is the proper time," Andrews said.

Andrews reportedly wrote state committeemen telling them of his intentions to resign and calling for a meeting of the party's Central Committee April 5, to discuss his replacement.

The Republican chairman has been at the center of a rift in party forces between Ohio U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. and former Gov. James Rhodes.

Dissatisfaction with Andrews reportedly arose following heavy Republican setbacks in the state in 1970. That dissatisfaction worsened when Democrats made further political gains in state House and Senate seats last November.

Taft said in Cincinnati that Andrews' resignation came as a complete surprise to him. He did not speculate on a successor. He said that decision would be up to the Central Committee and would take a lot of discussion.

The rift between Taft and Andrews reportedly developed because Taft felt Andrews supported Rhodes' candidacy in the Taft-Rhodes Senate primary fight in 1970, which Taft won.

Rhodes came to Andrews' defense when some party members joined in a move to reorganize the party and oust Andrews following the 1970 election upsets. At that time Rhodes called Andrews the "best state chairman in the nation."

There will be "no great thrashing around of the party to re-elect Andrews' successor," according to Robert Rowley, chairman of the Lucas County Republican Party.

He said Andrews would retain his position on the state central committee as a representative from the Ninth Congressional District at Toledo, an elected post.

Rowley named four men as possible candidates to head the party. They are state GOP Vice Chairman Ken McGough of Lima; Cuyahoga County Republican Chairman Bob Hughes; Chuck Ross of Dayton, state chairman of the Committee to Re-elect the President, and Hamilton County GOP Chairman Earl Barnes.

Senate studies wage, price control change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opening debate on renewing presidential authority for wage-price controls, the Senate is considering a range of amendments that would give Congress a voice in managing the economy.

The key issue under debate today was extension of the Economic Stabilization Act for another year past its April 30 expiration. President Nixon used the act as authority for the 1971 wage-price freeze, the mandatory Phase 2 controls and the largely voluntary Phase 3 program.

But the Senate has a variety of proposals that would give the President more than he asked. Most of these were pushed by Democrats during Banking Committee consideration of the bill.

Proposed amendments would:

—Restore federal controls on rent for one year in most metropolitan areas with low vacancy rates. There are no rent controls under Phase 3, and many tenant organizations are protesting that landlords imposed big rent increases when Phase 2 expired in January.

—Restore the required federal approval of wage settlements hammered out by big unions and corporations, as well as price increases. This requirement was a major part of mandatory controls under Phase 2.

While the government has not spelled out exactly what is required under the new program, the Phase 3 regulations are mandatory only for the health, food and construction industries.

—Limit the amount of a wage hike a large business can pass on in price increases.

—Put a $265-billion spending limit on the fiscal year starting July 1.

PUCO probes derailment fatal to man; 20 injured

EAST PALESTINE, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Public Utilities Commission (PUCO) today continued its investigation of a train derailment that killed one man and injured 20 more when five cars of Amtrak's Broadway Limited derailed Sunday.

The mishap occurred in a heavy snowstorm early Sunday morning. Four of the five cars overturned, splintering utility poles and shearing off the glass front of a nearby Adamson Manufacturing Co. plant.

The derailment occurred about 15 miles south of Youngstown in East Palestine. The train was on Penn Central tracks at the time.

Penn Central officials said that an earlier accident involving a freight train may have led to the derailment, according to PUCO Chairman Henry W. Eckhart.

Eckhart said Penn Central officials told him that the freight train had separated in the vicinity of the derailment about two hours earlier. He said the front cars of the train made an emergency stop and that the rear cars collided with them causing a kink in the tracks.

The engineer of the Amtrak train saw the kink when his train came along and attempted to stop. The last five cars of his train jumped the track when he stopped.

Eckhart said a full investigation of both incidents will be undertaken by his office.

After the derailment, the first eight cars of the Amtrak train went on to Chicago with all the passengers who wanted to continue the trip. The train first stopped to pick up 17 passengers who had been treated at a local a hospital.

The train was en route to Chicago from New York.

The dead man, George Wintoniak, 53, of Haverford, Pa., was a Penn Central engineer traveling as a passenger. Columbiana County Coroner William A. Kolozsi said the man died of a severe head injury.

Air crash fatal to 58

SAIGON (AP) — An Air Vietnam airliner crashed in flames today while coming in to land at the Ban Me Thuot airport in the central highlands, killing at least 58 persons.

There were no survivors.

Among the victims were three Americans—the pilot, copilot and one passenger—and two Japanese. The rest were Vietnamese.

A government spokesman said the DC4 carried 62 persons, but the Air Vietnam manifest listed 53 passengers and five crew members.

The crash occurred about six miles southwest of Ban Me Thuot as the plane was making its final landing approach on a flight from Saigon.

U.S. sources said there were no indications that the plane had been hit by ground fire, but the possibility of that would be investigated.

21 inches of snow in southern Michigan

Eastern storm loss heavy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High winds, angry Great Lakes and a punishing snowfall in the East, intensive flooding in the South, rain and snow in the West—winter isn't through with the United States just yet.

A storm walloped the Great Lakes region, leaving as much as 21 inches of snow in lower Michigan, and flooded towns on the Ohio shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The cleanup continued today as snows lingered in the East and winds from 35 to 75 miles per hour lashed 20-foot waves on the Great Lakes and 10-foot snow drifts ashore.

Gale warnings were posted for lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario and for the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Maine as the storm moved out of the U.S.

About 5,000 persons were stranded on highways in Lower Michigan and many roads remained closed early today. Interstate 94 was closed west of Marshall, Mich.

About 400 persons were put up in churches and schools in Michigan. Flood waters in Bay County were receding and residents began to return to their homes. No deaths were directly attributed to the storms, but several persons suffered heart attacks while awaiting rescue.

Dozens of families in the Rochester, N.Y., suburb of Greece, one of the hardest hit by lake waves, remained with friends and relatives Sunday night. Lake Ontario is at its highest level since 1952.

Flood waters continue to pound areas of the lower Mississippi Valley, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee. Property damage is estimated at $35 million and more than 1,000 families have been forced from their homes in Chattanooga, Tenn. Tennessee's governor has asked President Nixon to declare 39 counties a disaster area.

In Mississippi, Gov. Bill Waller estimated flood damage at $25 million, and said the Delta region was "almost one solid sheet of water. Nearly 1,000 persons were forced out of their homes at Columbus, and 400 at Greenwood. All major roads to Columbus, with the exception of U.S. 82, were closed.

An intense storm off the Washington coast has brought rain to the Pacific Northwest. Gale warnings are up from the northern California to the Washington coasts. Winds were clocked at 60 miles per hour.

Light snow or rain touched the Rockies and moved into the Plains region. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at Evanston, Wyo. to 68 at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Northern Ohioans today were still digging out from under a late winter storm that was anticipated if not expected when it raked across the state this weekend, stacking up 10-foot drifts and causing flooding.

Several hundred people were forced to abandon low-lying homes along the Lake Erie shoreline in the storm's fury, and the threat of strong lake winds and additional flooding continued today.

Only snow flurries were forecast across most of northern Ohio, however, as snowplows and city graders turned most snow-clogged roads and streets into passable byways Sunday night.

The storm followed rapidly falling temperatures across northern Ohio, which had experienced unseasonably warm temperatures in past weeks.

And the northeasterly lake winds, which sent 15-foot waves crashing into the shoreline, confirmed predictions that high lake levels make the northwestern Ohio shoreline extremely vulnerable to flooding this spring.

Virtually all of the schools in Mahoning and Trumbull counties, hardest hit by the snowstorm, were closed today. Strong, icy winds drifted the snow into 10-foot stacks, closing highways and city streets in both cities.

Interstate travel and major city streets were cleared by Sunday afternoon, although counties across the northern end of the state reported minor roads still snowbound through the day.

At least four persons died of heart attacks while shoveling snow Sunday,

RESCUE WORKERS IN FLOODED AREA — Members of the local rescue squad move into an apartment complex in Huntsville, Ala. to evacuate persons stranded in the wake of flash flooding caused by some seven inches of rain in 18 hours. No serious injuries were reported in this aerospace city of 138,000.

Weekend's blizzard conditions create traffic nightmare here

Blizzard-like conditions Saturday, which left area roads ice covered and drifted, were blamed for most of the 37 traffic accidents reported in the city-county area over the weekend.

The Sheriff's Department investigated 28 of the property damage crashes and reported numerous other vehicles had slid off the roadways but were not damaged. Sheriff Don Thompson said it was the worst weekend his department had experienced.

Drifts of more than three feet were reported on some county roads and State Highway Department crews were hard pressed to keep one lane open for traffic during the worst of the snowstorm.

Officers reported some minor injuries in the mishaps but none serious enough to require treatment at Memorial Hospital.

A two-car crash on Ohio 41, just north of Hickory Lane at 5 p.m. Saturday resulted in one citation and moderate property damage.

Sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Lillian F. Fisher, 42, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville was northbound and had slowed at the scene of an earlier accident when a car driven by Roy V. Sword, 46, Rt. 4, skidded into the rear of the Fisher auto.

SWORD was cited for failure to maintain assured clear distance.

Ruth A. Jones, 34, of 1253 High St., was charged with failure to yield right of way after a two-car crash at the intersection of Fayette Street and Circle Avenue at 10:59 a.m. Saturday.

Police said the eastbound Jones car pulled from Circle Avenue into the path of the southbound car driven by Gary G. Campbell, 21, of 641 W. Oakland Ave.

Both cars were heavily damaged in the mishap.

Police cited Theodore Black, 20, of 122 W. Market St., for backing without safety in a minor collision on Forest Street, just west of Rose Avenue, at 11:40 a.m. Saturday.

Black was backing from a parking lot and backed across Forest Street, colliding with a parked car owned by Orval J. Ray, of 262 S. Main St., police reported.

Damage was moderate.

Other mishaps involving the following drivers were investigated by city police and sheriff's departments.

Indians reject federal plan to 'heal' Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Indians occupying the village of Wounded Knee say the government's proposed solution to the 20-day-old confrontation amounts to total surrender by the Indians.

American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Russell Means, promising "a final ultimatum" sometime today, said "the proposal we make will be the deciding factor in whether the negotiations continue."

"Our statement will bring the confrontation to a head," Means said after a meeting with federal negotiators in Wounded Knee Sunday.

Means said the government offer Saturday by Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Harlington Wood "amounts to total capitulation, total surrender" on the part of the Indians.

Wood had said the offer was the best one the government could make. Wood, Wayne Colburn, director of the U.S. Marshal Services, and Richard Hellstern, an assistant to Wood, talked for 2½ hours with the Indian leaders in Wounded Knee about the government's threephase proposal.

Following that meeting Wood said he expects more negotiations.

Asked if the meeting had been productive, he said, "I think that as long as we're talking together, we're making progress. We're just trying to do our best to get it over. The Indian people during this process of negotiation have been very decent."

26 American POWs fly home from Clark Air Base

By KRIS LILJEHOLM
Associated Press Writer

Two planes carried 26 American prisoners of war across the Pacific today toward reunions with families and friends. Among them was the longest held American POW, Army Maj. Floyd J. Thompson, to be met by a 9-year-old son he has never seen.

Also in the group which left Clark Air Base in the Philippines in C141 StarLifters Sunday evening were Philip W. Manhard, 51, of McLean, Va., the highest-ranking U.S. diplomat held captive, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn, 36, of Colorado Springs, Colo., freed Thursday by the Chinese. The other 25 are the last of 134 military men and six civilians freed last week in Hanoi by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

By North Vietnamese count, 147 American prisoners are still to be released by March 28.

Meanwhile, 56 former POWs prepared for extensive medical examinations today after warm welcomes Sunday at military installations from California to Maryland.

"Wonderful! Wonderful! Wonderful!" repeated Air Force Capt. William W. Butler, 32, of San Rafael, Calif., as he accepted handshakes and hugs from some of the 1,000 wellwishers greeting the group of 20 men landing at Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

"We're back in our land and we're back with our people and we are humbly grateful to God and to you our countrymen for bringing us home," said Navy Capt. Leo T. Profilet of Palo Alto, Calif., tears welling up behind a bright smile.

At Camp Lejeune, N.C., Lt. Col. Jerry W. Marvel, 39, told 1,000 persons who turned out to greet him: "I don't know the words to say how happy I am to be here tonight. I was very fortunate in Hanoi to learn the meaning of a very small word that we sometimes take for granted.

"The word is faith. Faith in God and faith in our country, faith in our President, faith in my family and faith in my fellow prisoners."

Of the 26 flying home toward similar reunions today, Maj. Thompson of Hudson, Mass., had reason to be one of the most eager. "I'm anxious to see my family, but especially my son," he said before leaving Clark. "He's nine years old and I've never seen him." The boy was born March 27, 1964, the day after Thompson was captured in Quang Tri Province when his plane was downed during a reconnaissance mission.

The second plane is to land at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., and go on to Scott Air Force Base, Ill. Marine Sgt. Ronald L. Ridegway, 23, of Houston, Tex., is among the 14 men aboard that plane. He was mistakenly declared dead in August 1968 after the bodies of several men were found in an abandoned outpost where his squad was ambushed.

Dollar fluctuates in nervous market trading

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The floating American dollar rose strongly at the opening of foreign exchanges around the world after a two-week shutdown, and the Bank of Japan sold an estimated $50 million to keep the rate from rising too fast.

But by noon in Europe, the value of the U.S. money was edging down in brisk but nervous trading. Big money operators appeared holding off while they watched for indications whether the international decisions in Paris Friday had ended the two-month monetary crisis.

U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, conferred for an hour with British Prime Minister Edward Heath in London. Shultz reportedly pressed for quick moves to reform the international trading system to give American exporters better competitive access to world markets.

Shultz also met with Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber.

Tokyo dealers reported an acute shortage of dollars in the Japanese capital after the two-week shutdown of exchanges. The Tokyo market was the first to reopen because of the time differential. The central bank's intervention was designed to keep the dollar's rate close to the level between Feb. 14, when the yen was floated, and March 2, when the exchanges closed.

In London, the pound declined sharply at the opening to $2.45 but by noon it had climbed back by a full cent, almost reaching Friday's closing rate in bank-to-bank trading of $2.4610.

In the key Frankfurt market, the dollar opened at 2.8350 marks, 21.5 pfennigs above Friday's close. But by noon the dollar had edged back to .82 marks.

The dollar was also up sharply in Zurich at the pening, being quoted at 3.2650 Swiss Francs, more than three centimmes over Friday's rate. But by noon, the rate had dropped to 3.24 francs.

The closing rate in Tokyo was 264.90 yen, down from 266.50 on March 1 but up from Friday's 260.50.

The price of gold, which soared to a record $95 an ounce at the peak of the money crisis, was $81 in Zurich and London, drops of $1.50 and $1.75 from the price Friday.

Finance ministers of the major non-Communist trading nations agreed in Paris on Friday that all major currencies would float freely in relation to the dollar according to supply and demand forces in the market place.

The move, putting an end to the 29-year-old Breton Woods system of fixed parities, means no state bank is committed any longer to support the dollar at a fixed value. For an indefinite period, "speculators will speculate against speculators" and not against state banks, as one American informant put it.

Gilligan urges equal rights amendment OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan has urged members of the Ohio House to vote for ratification of the Equal Rights amendment, contending Ohio's action will be "pivotal" in the campaign to amend the U. S. Constitution to assure women's equality.

Gilligan wrote a letter to each of the 99 House members asking them to support the proposed amendment, noting 28 states have ratified it and 10 more are needed.

"Passage now of the ERA by the Ohio General Assembly would provide a vital thrust forward for the ERA campaign," Gilligan said.

Zoo animals feeling pinch

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Most of the Cincinnati Zoo's 2,500 meat-eating residents are bearing up under substitutes forced by the inflated price of meat.

Horsemeat has gone up from 28.5 cents a pound a year ago to 50.5 cents and zoologist Barry Wakeman says the zoo can't afford it.

The animals eat about 2,500 pounds a week for an annual meat bill of $65,000, up from $33,800.

Heavy storm loss

but no other storm-related deaths were reported.

Hundreds of motorists were stranded along highways, but all were picked up by state patrolmen and ferried to rest areas, service stations and motels.

State agriculture officials believe that the weekend freezing temperatures and heavy snows may have caused serious damage to Ohio's fruit crops.

Ohio Agriculture Department Director Gene R. Abercrombie said that without a doubt the peach crop has been damaged. Last year's bad weather caused almost a complete loss of the peach crop.

Abercrombie said that damage done to apples and grapes depends on the variety of the fruit.

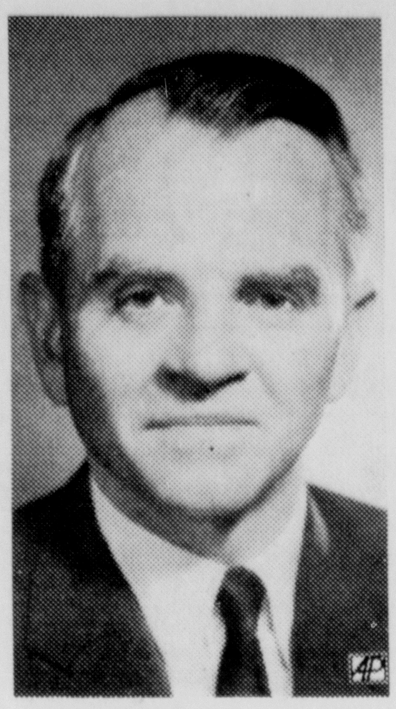
Dr. Howard Rollins, chairman of the Ohio State University Horticulture Department, said frozen buds are the big problem, and that if the temperature falls below 28 degrees for an extended period of time while trees are in full bloom, very serious damage could result.

The unseasonable warm weather Ohio has been having caused trees to bloom early, particularly the peach trees, according to Rollins.

It would be remarkable if fruit growers came through the weekend cold spell without heavy damage, Rollins said.

An exact estimate of the damage done will not be available for several days until the growers are able to assess the situation.

Dan Tucker, agriculture statistician for the Ohio Crop Reporting Service, said the peach crop normally brings about $2 million annually to the state, grapes bring about $1½ million and apples bring about $8 million.



NEW IRS CHIEF — Donald C. Alexander, nationally known tax expert and Cincinnati lawyer, is reported under consideration to replace Johnnie M. Walters as U. S. Internal Revenue Service commissioner. Alexander was a consultant to the Treasury Department in 1966-68 and was vice chairman of the American Bar Association's section of taxation in 1967-68.

Cambodian malcontent escapes

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian pilot who bombed President Lon Nol's palace, killing at least 36 persons but not the president, apparently made a successful getaway to Communist territory.

The Cambodian Air Force T28 fighter that Capt. So Potra used in the assassination attempt Saturday was last seen over Kompong Cham province, northeast of Phnom Penh. He was believed to have landed at an air strip in the two-thirds of Cambodia controlled by the Khmer Rouge, the country's Communist movement, and their North Vietnamese allies.

Potra was reported to be the lover of Princess Norodom Botum Bopha, daughter of the chief of state deposed by Lon Nol, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. But some American sources suggested that Potra was angry because he had failed flight training.

Lon Nol in a broadcast charged that the assassination attempt was part of a Communist plot to overthrow his government.

Potra's bombs missed the presidential palace but hit the guards' compound nearby, razing more than 100 closely packed shacks. Searchers recovered 36 bodies, and more than 50 persons were injured.

Lon Nol barred foreigners from leaving the country, closed all newspapers except the government's and strengthened the watch on members of the royal family.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Weather Service reported today the storm system is weakening, causing high winds to subside across Lake Erie. All shore erosion warnings were lowered early today west of Erie, Pa.

Much of the state was expected to have sunshine today as temperatures climb into the 40s and 50s. Winds will at 20 to 25 miles per hour, and cloudiness is predicted to prevail most of the day over the northeast.

Tuesday's highs will again be in the 40s and 50s, with overnight lows tonight forecast in the upper 20s and lower 30s.

Prater trial resumes

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Defense attorney M. David Rothman expects to open his case by midweek in the Yablonski murder trial of William Prater, and his first witness may be former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

As testimony entered its eighth day today, prosecutor Richard Sprague had called 43 witnesses in an effort to prove Prater helped plan the 1969 killings of UMW rebel Joseph "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

Rothman, of Pittsburgh, contacted Boyle last week through Boyle's attorney and requested his appearance as a witness. Boyle defeated Yablonski in a bitter election for the presidency of the UMW just three weeks prior to the Dec. 31, 1969, killings.

Red supply flow into South continues despite warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources report that military equipment has continued to flow from North Vietnam since President Nixon warned Hanoi to stop infiltrating South Vietnam.

"It's still going on," one source said. He indicated Sunday there has been no measurable slowdown of such movements in the wake of Nixon's statement last Thursday that the North Vietnamese "should not lightly disregard" U.S. expressions of concern.

Meanwhile, intelligence analysts estimate that the North Vietnamese have sent between 400 and 450 armored vehicles, including tanks, into South Vietnam in the less than two months since the Vietnam cease-fire.

U.S. officials view these and other movements as serious violations of the cease-fire agreement which forbids any shipment of military gear into South Vietnam except on a strictly limited basis under international supervision.

"We're not very sanguine about the international supervisory machinery working," a Pentagon official said.

Intelligence specialists say some of the new tanks reported in South Vietnam since the cease-fire came down from southern China, where they were stockpiled until the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam was halted.

According to fresh estimates, more than 1,100 trucks moved across the demilitarized zone from North Vietnam into South Vietnam in the week ended last Thursday, the day Nixon issued his warning to Hanoi.

In that same week, sources said, about 200 trucks rolled down the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos.

Analysts said that some 10,000 tons of supplies have moved through one pass from North Vietnam into Laos since Feb. 1.

BLAST IN DENVER — One person was killed and a dozen Denver policemen injured in a shooting-bombing incident near the headquarters of the Crusade for Justice in Denver. Police officer Stephen H. Snyder was shot when he attempted to arrest a man for creating a disturbance when the shooting broke out among onlookers. During the shooting Snyder was shot three times but managed to shoot and kill his assailant. The bomb went off shortly after other officers arrived on the scene.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices fell precipitiously today as investors took a cool glance at the sharp spurt in the prime lending rate at two major New York banks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 8.20 at 954.85. Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 3 to 1.

Referring to the ½ per cent hike in the prime lending rate to 6¾ per cent by Manufacturers Hanover Trust and Marine Midland, Newton Zinder, analyst with E. F. Hutton Co., said: "The market suddenly got hit by something which, though not completely surprising, wasn't expected this morning."

Hughes & Hatcher was volume leader on the Big Board, down ⅝ to 8⅛ after a 124,600 block share traded earlier at 8, down ¾.

Other Big Board prices included CIT Financial, off 1 to 42; International Telephone, down 1½ to 48½; Walt Disney, down 1½ to 94⅞; and Levitz Furniture, which recently reported higher earnings, up ⅞ to 14⅜.

Pair wed on cycles

MILLWOOD, Ohio (AP) — The bride wore white slacks, a black windbreaker, a burgundy turtleneck sweater and brown boots. So did the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Knoff of Mt. Vernon roared to their wedding on twin motorcycles. They became man and wife at the Caves Campground in Knox County, about a mile and a half east of here.

The 45 guests then mounted their bikes and wheeled down Ohio 36 to Mt. Vernon for the reception. The bride, formerly Carolyn Spearman of Fredericktown, "about froze to death and I lover her for it," Knoff said.

Carolyn was a waitress in a Mt. Vernon restaurant. Three months ago she waited on Knoff, and that's how it all started.

43rd All-Ohio Safety Congress set in Columbus

A pioneer in the continuing effort to curb narcotic and drug abuse will be a featured speaker at the 43rd All-Ohio Safety Congress and Exhibit to be held April 10, 11 and 12 at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel in Columbus.

Burt C. Haddad, founder and executive director of Cleveland's Narcotic and Drug Education Institute, will address the Veterans of Safety at 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 11, in the Mediterranean-Caribbean Room of the Sheraton-Columbus.

The NDEI has become an authoritative source of knowledge for those charged with the responsibility for narcotic and drug control since Haddad brought it into being as a speakers bureau in 1967.

Haddad, who has served as an investigator with the Cleveland Department of Public Safety, a supervising agent of the Ohio Sales and Excise Tax Commission, and as a U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Department agent during World War II, has headed his own public accounting and auditing firm in Cleveland for the past 25 years.

Haddad's audience will be comprised of industrial accident and disease prevention specialists from throughout Ohio, as well as from a number of other states and foreign countries, who gather in the Ohio capital city some 5,000 strong each year to exchange ideas and learn of the latest in safety and hygiene information, equipment and techniques.

"The problem to which Haddad will address himself concerns industrial accident and disease prevention specialists specifically to the extent that narcotic and drug use could effect a worker's ability to perform his job safely," Superintendent Thomas W. Gallagher of the Industrial Commission of Ohio's Division of Safety and Hygiene said in announcing the narcotic and drug control expert's appearance. The Division is sponsor of the All-Ohio Safety Congress and Exhibit.

The Congress is open to the public and registration is free.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Roddenberry, a quiet man with an incredible background, quit television 2½ years ago when NBC cancelled the "Star Trek" series he created.

While the series' quite vocal fans raged over the cancellation, Roddenberry wrote a few movies, got married, and, as he puts it, "played golf around the world."

But touring assorted courses proved a bit dull for a man who in his 51 years has been: A B17 bomber pilot in the South Pacific, a Pan Am pilot on DC4s and Lockheed Constellations, a Los Angeles police sergeant, and one of the most respected writers in television today.

Roddenberry's self-imposed exile from the tube ends Friday night when CBS broadcasts his "Genesis II," a 90-minute pilot he created for a proposed series. It is set in the year 2133.

Unlike "Star Trek," the new show is entirely about the planet earth, a war-ravaged planet in which civilization has collapsed and broken down into isolated communities with no links to each other.

It's a grim scene faced by the show's main character, a young NASA scientist awakened from a suspended animation test that had begun 160 years earlier and was to last only a few weeks.

Roddenberry said he was encouraged to start writing for television again because when he came out of semi-retirement "studio heads and the networks were saying, 'What have you got that's different?'

"This is the first time this has happened to me in almost 20 years in the business and I think it's going to greatly improve TV in years to come," he said.

Another factor in his return to television, he said, was that "I discovered, to my absolute consternation, that playing golf seven days a week wasn't really as much fun as sitting behind a desk."

Roddenberry said he felt a combination of fatigue and bitterness when NBC cancelled "Star Trek" at the end of a three-year run.

"To do a show as complex as that, to work 14 hours a day for three years — you've made a huge emotional expenditure as well as a physical one," he said softly.

He grinned when asked why he was returning to the television wars.

"Well, I tried features and they were fun," he said. "But I guess there's something perverse in me that misses the afternoon crises of television.

"I think it's also common sense. How can a writer ignore a medium that hits 50 million people? You just can't."

City Board to discuss Junior High library

The City Board of Education will consider a proposal to renovate two rooms in Washington Junior High School for the purpose of expanding library facilities at its Monday night meeting.

A variety of routine matters will also receive the Board's attention, including the enrollment of three teachers in graduate courses, investment of interim money and a request by the Parent Teacher Association for the use of a school bus.

Ohio perspective

Drug program no big success

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's first effort to register drug treatment programs would have to be classified as something less than successful.

The General Assembly enacted a law last July that requires the registration of all organizations that treat drug addicts in Ohio.

Out of about 240 such organizations the Bureau of Drug Abuse says are operating in Ohio, only 58 responded to a bureau request for registration data.

No one was trying to hide anything. BUDA blundered when it sent out its registration questionnaires.

"It went out as a fourth-class mailing just before Christmas," BUDA chief Mel Zwissler said "Nobody caught it. We've got organizations that are still calling in here looking for it."

It doesn't make too much difference, because the law requires two registrations each year and another questionnaire will be mailed out this June, Zwissler said.

When BUDA finally gets statewide data, it will use it in an effort to find out how many addicts are being treated, what is being done for them, and how effective the programs are.

The bureau's job is to keep track of what both public and private drug agencies are doing and provide them with training and other consultant-type services.

When BUDA knows more about the state's drug programs, Zwissler said, it will also set some standards for the services they provide.

Ultimately BUDA hopes to have better information on which programs are most effective in helping addicts to overcome their dependency on drugs.

Zwissler said the 58 drug programs that have reported to BUDA claim that 30 per cent of the addicts they treated have been successfully rehabilitated.

But he said BUDA eventually will check the agencies' own claims with state evaluations.

Zwissler said BUDA soon will be designated by Gov. John J. Gilligan to coordinate development of a state anti-drug plan.

The bureau already has prepared a directory of all agencies, public and private, in Ohio which treat addicts. The directory will be made available to school counselors, parole officers, police, hospital emergency rooms and others who might be asked where drug treatment is available.

Chapters observe birthdays with luncheon at Valley House

Alpha Gamma Chapter, of Delta Kappa Gamma entertained the members of Alpha Delta Chapter of Washington C. H. and Fayette County at a luncheon, Saturday noon at the Valley House in Chillicothe. The occasion was the annual joint celebration of the birthdays of the two chapters which were both founded in March, 1939. Since their organization, it has been the custom for the two chapters to alternate as hostesses for their chapter birthdays. Delta Kappa Gamma is an organization of women whose members are or have been educators or have made worthwhile contributions to education.

The Delta Kappa Gamma colors of crimson and gold were used in the decorations. Bowls of red roses, the Delta Kappa Gamma flower, centered each table at which places were marked with red rose corsages. The hand-decorated place cards also featured a single red rose. The focal point at the head table was a lamp of knowledge, one of the symbols on the pin and crest of the organization, brought to the Chillicothe Chapter from Morocco by Mrs. Ruth Minshall, one of their charter members.

The traditional birthday cake was the last course. Before it was served Mrs. Edward Kuntzman, president of Alpha Gamma, asked the group of 65 to join in singing Happy Birthday, celebrating their thirty-fourth birthday.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Kuntzman welcomed the 28 guests from the Washington C. H. - Fayette County Chapter and introduced Mrs. Karl Harper, vice-president of Alpha Delta Chapter. She responded to the welcome and introduced Mrs. Frank Mayo, the first president of Alpha Delta, and other charter members present, the past presidents and the others attending. Mrs. Kuntzman then made the introductions for her chapter.

Mrs. Gerturde Higby, vice-president and program chairman of the Chillicothe Chapter, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Lee Stephenson of Columbus, the first vice-president of the Ohio organization of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society. The Washington - Fayette County members were especially happy to see and hear Mrs. Stephenson as she, a number of years ago, was a teacher of home economics in Washington High School. She will be remembered as Miss Helen Davis and she still has many friends here.

Mrs. Stephenson entitled her talk "Where Do We Go from Here?" Among the many worthwhile thoughts she left with her listeners was the reminder that they are members of a society dedicated to worthwhile purposes and that they should not overlook opportunities to interest outstanding women in education in the work of Delta Kappa Gamma by organizing new chapters as well as by encouraging the active participation of present members in the work of their chapters. She also emphasized the value derived from attending regional, state and national Delta Kappa Gamma conventions. She feels that it is at these conventions that members have the best opportunities to understand their heritage in this international organization which was founded May 11, 1929.

Mrs. Stephenson closed her talk by reminding her listeners that, in this era of change, Delta Kappa Gamma members have, in her opinion, a duty to emphasize in their work with young people the basic principles that have guided the development of so many men and women whom time has proved worthy of honor and admiration.

Holy Rosary Church setting for wedding

Miss Linda Susan Coffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Coffey, Rt. 4, became the bride of Charles A. Turner III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Turner, of Bexley, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Thomas Farley performed the double-ring ceremony in the chapel of Holy Rosary Church in Columbus before the altar adorned with two large vases of mixed spring flowers.

The Franciscan Singers presented contemporary song selections.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Coffey wore a formal length, white satin A-line gown with empire waist, short chapel-length train, scoop neckline and fitted sleeves. Floral lace enhanced the neckline, sleeves and waist. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies with yellow centers, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Worrell, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, maid of honor, wore a formal length mint green A-line gown with empire waist. The high neckline, bell sleeves and waist were trimmed with white lace featuring small green flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow daisies.

Ralph H. Rosenblum Jr., DDS, of Newport, R. I., was the best man.

Mrs. Coffey chose for her daughter's wedding a street length yellow double knit suit with rose corsage and black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a street-length light blue dress with matching vest, light blue accessories and a rose corsage.

Hostesses for the reception in the home of the groom's parents were Diana Angela and Theresa Turner, sisters of the groom.

Following a wedding trip to the Hudson River Valley in New York state and through the New England states, the couple will reside at 199 E. Whittier St., in German Village, Columbus.

The new Mrs. Turner, a graduate of Miami Trace High School and Ohio State University, is presently a graduate student in Social studies education at OSU. Her husband, also a graduate of OSU with a masters degree in city planning (MCP), is director of environmental health planning, The Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation, in Columbus.

Brant getting scarce; hunting is prohibited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brant are getting so scarce on the east coast that Nathaniel P. Reed, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, expects the hunting season will be closed for at least two more years.

Estimates are that these little geese have dropped from 200,000 in the late 1960s to about 40,000, the smallest number in a quarter of a century. The decrease has been blamed on poor nesting seasons in the Canadian Arctic.

CREAM PUFFS are filled with a delicious custard-like vanilla cream.

Custard Creations

Simple and Simply Superb

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THAT nutritious, delicious and easy-to-make dessert, the custard, was an English discovery, made by boiling or baking a mixture of milk, eggs and sugar. The French adopted the idea but eventually added some gelatin to the eggs and also some cream, resulting in Vanillia Bavarian Cream. Later the Spaniards introduced the use of caramel sauce and became famous for their baked caramel custards.

Surprisingly, the custards of all cuisines have one thing in common — the flavor of vanilla. It has a special affinity for milk, cream and eggs, blending with their natural flavors, yet not overpowering them. The success secret, of course, is to use pure extract of vanilla. Imitation vanilla not only lacks authentic flavor but is often too strong and dominating.

Soft custard can be a dessert in itself, or it can be the topping for fruits, puddings, pies or slices pound cake

VANILLA SOFT CUSTARD

1-3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon flour
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1½ cups milk
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract

Combine the sugar, salt and flour in a heavy saucepan or the top part of a double boiler. Blend in eggs. Add milk and cook over low heat or hot water until the mixture coats a metal spoon, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla extract. Chill. Serves 4.

The filling for these cream puffs uses essentially the same kind of ingredients as do custards.

CUSTARD-FILLED CREAM PUFFS

1 cup water
½ cup butter
1 cup all-purpose flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons pure vanilla extract
4 eggs
Custard Cream Filling
¼ cup confectioners' sugar

In a medium saucepan combine water and butter; bring to boiling point. Vigorously stir in flour and salt. Cook and stir over low heat for 1 minute or until mixture forms a ball. Remove from heat.

Place dough in the large bowl of an electric mixer. Beat in vanilla extract. Then beat in eggs, one at a time; beat until mixture is smooth.

Drop dough by the ¼ cupsful, 3-inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 F.) for about 35 minutes or until puffs are golden. Cool on racks.

Mrs. Kaye Bartlett was program leader for the evening. She used for her topic "The Plan of God," which discussed the work of Peter and John, the apostles. The Bible study was taken from the Book of Acts.

A report was made by Mrs. Gerald Wheat of the association's meeting and Mrs. Coil reminded of the Spring Presbyterial and the Retreat. The next meeting is to be changed to April 18 because of the Maundy Thursday service.

Mead Corp. expects earnings improvement

DAYTON — Mead Corporation expects its first quarter earnings to be substantially improved over the comparable period of 1972. A projected improvement of approximately 70 per cent in first quarter earnings has been made by J. W. McSwiney, chairman of the board.

"We estimate our earnings for the first quarter of 1973 will be in the range of $7.4 million to $7.7 million, or $.33 to $.36 per share," McSwiney said.

In the first quarter of 1972 Mead earned $4.4 million before extraordinary items, or 14 cents per common share. First quarter extraordinary items in 1972 added 3 cents per common share.

The improved profits are the result of several factors. Continued high demand for lumber and pulp has helped to maintain high operating levels for Mead's forest product affiliates, British Columbia Forest Products (BCFP) and Northwood Pulp and Timber. Strong demand for paperboard and containers has resulted in higher earnings in the paperboard group compared to the first quarter of 1972.

IN ADDITION, Mead Paper showed greater profitability as a result of an improved mix of product sales and higher efficiency at its mills. Mead's new pulp and paper complex in Escanaba, Mich., which operated at a pre-tax loss of approximately $9 million in 1972, is continuing to improve its operation.

Escanaba management and its suppliers expect to resolve the air pollution problem which has hampered operation of the new pulp mill there by September 1973. Based on present forecasts, Escanaba will be operating at profitable levels in the third quarter, the Mead official said.

The Stanley Furniture Co., a part of Mead Interiors, showed significant profit gains in 1972, and backlogs of customer orders continue at record levels.

Within the Mead Metals and Minerals group, coal and coke operations are running substantially ahead of last year. The company's blast furnaces near Birmingham were phased out on Jan. 27, in line with plans announced at the end of 1972. The Soil Pipe division improved in the first quarter of 1973 from the levels achieved in the last half of 1972, McSwiney said.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Plans to construct a new mill near Stevenson, Ala. for the manufacture of paperboard corrugating medium have been announced jointly by George C. Wallace, governor of Alabama, and James W. McSwiney, chairman and chief executive officer of Mead Corporation.

Gov. Wallace said the state of Alabama welcomes Mead and the opportunity its investment affords the citizens of Alabama in employment and economic benefits.

The multi-million dollar mill will produce 650 tons of corrugating medium per day and employ around 200 people when completed, McSwiney said. Groundbreaking is set for next month and the mill is expected to start operation at the end of 1974.

Land Bank group elects officers, hears reports

Officers and directors were elected, and the 1972 financial and operating report was made at the annual meeting Saturday of the Federal Land Bank Association of Washington C. H.

Following adjournament of the business session, Press Alexander, of Clinton County, showed slides of scenes he made in Austria in 1970.

Tom McMillan and Herbert Peterson, of Clinton County, and Norman Schiering, of Fayette County, were elected to the board for three-year terms.

Schiering was appointed to fill out the term of Stanley Dray, when he resigned.

Other members of the board are Gene Gustin, of Fayette County, Ben Terrell, of Clinton County, and Leslie Laird and Bernard Conway, of Madison County.

When the board reorganized, Terrell was named president to succeed Laird, and Gustin was named vice president to succeed McMillan.

RONALD RATLIFF, manager of the association which serves Fayette, Madison, and Clinton counties, reported that there are approximately 800 Federal Land Bank borrowers in the three counties last year and that loans outstanding now total approximately $28.5 million.

That, he said, was an increase of 50 borrowers and an increase of 17 per cent in the amount of loans outstanding.

The report showed 287 loans to Fayette County farmers totaling $10,533,000; to 300 Clinton Countians totaling $8,200,000 and to 210 Madison County farmers totaling $8,500,000.

Alexander said in narrating his slides that farming in Austria is different from that in the United States in many ways. The cropland is divided so each farm has good, fair and not-so-good land, he said. Crops are principally hay, potatoes, sugar beets and some barley. Livestock is raised in confinement, he said, adding that vineyards grow on the mountains.

Alexander stayed in Austria with the family which had spent some time with the Alexander family in Clinton County several years ago.

The meeting of approximately 200 Land Bank borrowers was held in the Mahan Building following a smorgasbord luncheon.

Sergio Mendes to give concert in Columbus

Sergio Mendes, the Latin American music man, and his Brasil '77 will appear on stage at the Ohio Theatre in Columbus at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 22, with new personnel, new sound and new numbers.

Mendes switched titles from "Brasil '66" to "Brasil '77" to signalize the changes in his group since his first triumphant impact on the U.S. public.

The group's current style is quite a departure from the original sound. Pop ditties like "The Look of Love" have given way to a unique brand of Brazilian folk music. Mendes' new album "Live Roots: Brasil '77" is a mixture of native Latin ans soft rock rhythms, topped with mysterious Portugese lyrics.

Show tickets are now available at Downtown Drugs, 211 E. Court St. or in Columbus at Central Ticket Office, Neil House lower arcade.

Maintenance work slated for highway, street crews

Routine maintenance of streets, roads and highways will occupy most of the time of work crews this week in Fayette County.

Gene Fitzpatric, Fayette County superintendent for the Ohio Department of Highways, said the state crews will be cleaning equipment used to remove snow from highways during the weekend. The department is also preparing for an inspection of equipment to be held April 17.

Other work this week includes sealing of cracks on Ohio 734, west of Jeffersonville, and on Ohio 41, south of Washington C.H.

City street crews, under Acting Superintendent Bill Duncan, will be cleaning and patching streets and widening the intersection of Washington Avenue and Elm Street.

Cincinnati beer empire dies out

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans are still guzzling beer at the rate of 28.2 gallons per year, but Cincinnati's once-proud beer empire on the Over-The-Rhine district is down to two breweries.

No longer does the smell of hops—akin to stewing tomotoes—scent the air.

The sounds are of traffic, carpenters rebuilding old houses and children playing...not the hiss and pop of the steam machinery nor the tinkle of the bottle shops.

The Burger Brewing Co., known for its beer and 30-year sponsorship of Cincinnati Reds baseball broadcasts, closed its doors last Thursday.

The demise leaves Cincinnati with only the Hudepohl Brewery, which will produce beer under the Burger label, and Schoenling. Wiedemann's beer is brewed across the Ohio River in northern Kentucky.

Burger officials said they had shifted to producing soft drinks.

Cincinnati's brewing industry began in 1811 with the David Embree Brewery.

With the immigration of Germans and Irish to the area from 1840 to 1860 263 breweries operated at one time or another in the city, according to the Cincinnati Historical Society.

Gradually, the dark British and Irish beers gave way to the German lager beers, which were much lighter in volume and color.

In 1919, when national prohibition began, Cincinnati had 22 breweries distributing beer in 30 states. Cincinnati's "Beer Barons" became social elite and built huge mansions in an area called "Mount Storm Park." Many still exist.

Most of the breweries closed during prohibition but others stayed open selling malt and syrups used in making "home brew."

"The trouble with home brew," said an old timer, "was everybody tried to make it too fast and too strong. Besides, it wasn't any good when you compare it with the commercial stuff."

Burger, which began as a home brewer's supply firm, switched to making home brew ingredients during prohibition, then opened as a commercial brewery in the 1930's.

"We are being crushed by might," said Edward Schoenling Jr., president and founder of Schoenling Beer.

"The big national breweries got 80 per cent of the business. They produce about 30,000 gallons per employe and we get 1,200 to 2,000 gallons.

"I told my father we were all going to go under 35 years ago but he thought I was crazy. You've got to be big with big equipment and have the money to advertise. As you advertise, so shall ye sell beer."

Along with the supporting cast, committees have been formed. Seniors of week

By ROBIN BRIGGS

Our first featured senior of the week is Dianne Tuvell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tuvell, 509 Damon Drive. She has a brother, Jeff, who is a junior at WSHS.

Dianne is enrolled in college preparatory courses and her subjects are American Government, English Literature, English Composition, Algebra II, Art and band. Her activities include Y-Teens, AFS, vice-president of band and track statistician. In her spare time Dianne enjoys to swim, crochet and draw.

"This year on a whole has been the best I've had. It will be sad to graduate, but it will be great to go to college," Dianne said.

MIKE DOMENICO, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Domenico, 137 River Road, is the second featured senior of the week.

Mike is enrolled in a college prep course this year. He's taking American Government, Advanced Math, Physics, English Literature and English Composition. His activities include Hi-Y, youth in government program, Letterman's Club, Student Council, varsity basketball and football. His hobbies include playing golf, raising cats and reading.

"I personally have no reason to regret my years at WSHS. However, there is a definite need for some changes to be made in particular areas of the school. My urge to underclassmen is to stand up for what you believe is right and work hard, the proper way, to do something about it."

Arsonist-thieves being sought

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police and fire arson investigators were checking junk dealers today in an attempt to find a gang of plumbing scavengers they said started three fires Saturday night to cover thefts.

All the fires were in an empty apartment project. Firemen said the fires were started in kitchen joists after copper plumbing had been pulled out.

Damage from the fires was $5,000, but no value was placed on the pipe. Each of the three buildings had four apartments.

Congratulations, Panthers

The high school tournament trail, a heartbreak highway which leaves only three of more than 800 Ohio schoolboy basketball teams happy, ended Saturday night for Miami Trace's amazing Panthers.

Being eliminated from a high school basketball tournament brings disappointment to any team, no matter what plateau it had reached prior to defeat, but Fayette County sports enthusiasts should be very proud of Miami Trace's post-season deeds.

This year Miami Trace's basketball team, with its fine tournament showing, not only gained pride and prestige by coming only two short steps away from entering the 51st state high school basketball tournament this weekend in Ohio State's St. John Arena, but generated a special word of praise from every basketball follower in Fayette County.

MIAMI TRACE'S long tournament trek also cast a glittering reflection on the high school, its student body and administration, the fans and more importantly, the South Central Ohio League as it was the first time in many, many years SCOL had gone to the regionals.

Miami Trace's renown of 1973 is now a matter of record. But this Panther team will surely rate special mention in the future when the conversation turns to Fayette County basketball teams.

It was a surprising rise for the Panthers who owned a disappointing 5-6 record at one point during the season.

In just three short seasons, young head coach Jan Stauffer, who took over following a fine era of Panther basketball teams under Delmar Mowery's direction, guided Miami Trace to a pinnacle of prestige, recognized throughout the area.

The Panthers rebounded from a lowly 2-3 start in the 45th SCOL cage sweepstakes to win five consecutive loop contests and capture a co-championship, the first time in four years Miami Trace had finished at the top.

But the Panther players had more to prove as they won 11 straight games, the school's fifth sectional tournament title, the first under the Class AAA branch, and continued on to grab their first-ever district championship by edging eighth-ranked Chillicothe, a team which had beaten Miami Trace by seven points earlier in the season.

Miami Trace, which climaxed the season with a fine 16-7 record, then advanced to Ohio's elite "Sweet Sixteen" plateau in the tough Columbus Class AAA Regional, which has produced six of the last 10 big school state champions.

THE RAMBUNCTIOUS Panthers, who were immediately tagged with the Cinderella label, were one of a mere 16 Class AAA schools bidding for a spot in the state tournament and found themselves in a group which included two of the top 10 Associated Press-ranked basketball teams in Columbus South (No. 5) and Newark (No. 6).

Miami Trace was paired against highly-favored Columbus South, the Columbus City League champ, and put on a very respectable showing before dropping a 53-42 decision.

It was an incredible season for Miami Trace and the Record-Herald sports staff joins Fayette County in saluting this Panther team.

APPLYING THE TAG — Cincinnati Reds' reserve catcher Bill Plummer is tagged out at home plate as he tries to score on a fly ball in the fifth inning of an exhibition game between Cincinnati and Kansas City. Making the tag is Kansas City's Jerry May. Plummer had tried to score on Joe Morgan's fly to left, but the Royals' Lou Piniella made a strong throw to the plate.

Elyria stuns defending Class AAA champions

Cleveland East Tech ousted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elyria cut short Cleveland East Tech's bid for a fourth Ohio high school basketball title with an awesome display of rebounding.

Ironically, that was the department that worried Elyria mentor Mike Riley the most before his squad stunned the defending Class AAA champions, 72-61, Sunday night in the Cleveland Regional Finals.

"I was afraid we might be intimidated playing the state champions," Riley said after the victory.

"But when we went out there and got the boards early, I began to feel good," he added.

Elyria will carry a 21-3 record against Cincinnati Elder, 18-4, in a Class AAA state semifinal game Thursday night in Ohio State's St. John Arena.

Columbus South, 21-2, the 1965 champion, opens the three-day tournament against Akron Central-Hower, 18-6, at 5:30 p.m.

The Class A semifinals Friday sends Marion Pleasant, 24-0, the small school football champion last fall, against 1968 king Mansfield St. Peter's, 23-4, at 1:30 p.m. and defending champion Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South, 24-0, against 23-1 Sebring at 3:30 p.m.

In the Class AA semifinal Friday night, Columbus Ready, 21-3, opens defense of its state title against Bellefontaine, 17-6, at 9:30 after Elyria Catholic, 24-1, and Delphos St. John, 17-7, play at 7:30.

All championship games are Saturday in St. John Arena.

Elyria completed the semifinals field by out-rebounding East Tech 47-33 in the weather-delayed Cleveland Regional championship contest.

"The game was won on the board. We have no excuses," said John Chavers, the coach of East Tech.

John Mongerson, a 6-foot-7 senior pulled down 20 rebounds and scored 14 points for Elyria, which led after every quarter. Jerry Gilbert paced the triumph with 20 points.

Lawrence Bolden, the only holdover from East Tech's 1972 championship squad was the Scarabs' scoring leader with 18 points.

The Class AAA tournament appears to be a wide open affair. Columbus Ready and Indian Valley South, with ample returnees from their 1972 title squads, are the favorites in the other two classes.

Ready, whose only setback were to Class AAA schools, has Jimmy Jones, a high scoring guard, and Chuck Seipel and Bob Cumberlander back as regulars from last year.

Meanwhile, Indian Valley, riding Ohio's longest winning streak of 50 games, has three regulars back from last year, guards Chuck McComb and Van Henry and Joel Cochran, a 6-foot-7 center.

The biggest shockers in the regional championships Saturday night were the romps by Cincinnati Elder and Mansfield St. Peter's.

Unranked Cincinnati Elder stunned seventh-rated Springfield South 71-45 at Dayton while unranked St. Peter's knocked out fourth-ranked and previously undefeated Wapakoneta St. Joseph 100-85 at Bowling Green.

Akron Central-Hower earned its third straight state semifinals berth, whipping Youngstown Mooney 62-57 at Canton and Columbus South pulled away in the second half to defeat three-time former king Newark 55-42 at Columbus.

In Class AA, Delphos St. John beat Genoa 88-67 at Bowling Green, Columbus Ready defeated Steubenville Catholic 50-48 at Steubenville, Bellefontaine eliminated Dayton Jefferson 77-67 at Dayton and Elyria Catholic ousted Youngstown North 59-45 at Copley.

In other Class A results, Indian Valley South beat fellow league member Strasburg for the second time this year 50-38 at Athens, Sebring beat Lorain Clearview 65-58 at Canton and Pleasant edged Pittsburg Franklin-Monroe 75-72 at Dayton.

WCH thinlies open season Wednesday

Seven returning veterans bolster Lion track hopes

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Washington C. H.'s track team, bolstered by seven returning letterman, will embark on a rugged season schedule Wednesday at the Central District Indoor track meet which will be held at French Field House at Ohio State University.

Head coach John Armstrong, entering his second straight season as the Blue Lion track taskmaster, has plenty of goals outlined for his charges in hopes of bettering a fine performance of a year ago.

The Blue Lion thinclads, behind the performances of three stalwarts, notched an eighth place finish in the Class AA branch of the 56th Ohio High School track meet at Columbus last spring.

IN ADDITION to the fine ranking in the state, the Washington C. H. tracksters were fourth in the Class AA Central District sectional meet and third in the always-tough South Central Ohio League event.

The nucleus of seven returning lettermen, including two stars who won honors in last season's state track meet, strengthen Washington C. H.'s hopes of improving a glittering 56-13 overall record.

Senior Brian Storm returns for Armstrong's second Blue Lion edition and will be a mainstay in the sprint events. Storm was a SCOL champion a year ago, placed second in the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the district meet and placed third in the 100-yard dash at the state track event.

The Central District Indoor meet Wednesday will match Storm and Mifflin's Larry Jackson, who topped the Blue Lion star in both the district and state meets last season.

Bob Osborne, another senior star, will head Washington C. H.'s prospects in the distance events. Osborne placed first in the 880-yard dash in the district last year and sixth in the same event at the state track meet.

OSBORNE WILL be joined in the distance events by Gary Huffman, Kevin Merritt and John Tatman, all letter-winners a year ago.

Junior Chuck Wilson, a standout in the field events, and Randy East, a sprinter, are Washington C. H.'s other returning veterans.

Armstrong, who feels the Blue Lions along with Hillsboro and Circleville will be strong contenders for the 1973 SCOL track championship, says depth may be one of Washington C. H.'s problems this season, although it's too early in the season to be sure.

Following Wednesday's Central District track meet, other tough meets on the Blue Lions' schedule include the Reynoldsburg Invitational, the annual Circleville Relays, and the Blanchester and Hillsboro invitationals.

The Lions will face several non-league toughies and all SCOL members before the annual league meet May 1-2 at Circleville.

Bobby Tolan appears well as Reds open win skein

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Tolan, who came pretty far back last season—far enough to be named Comeback Player of the Year—appears to have come back the rest of the way.

The Cincinnati Reds' center fielder, who missed the entire 1971 season with a ruptured achilles tendon in his right leg, hit .283 with 82 RBI and 42 stolen bases in 1972. "I'm hoping this year to get back to the .300 mark," he says. He batted .305 and .310 in the two years before he was hurt.

Tolan seems to be well on the way to attaining that goal. After sitting out the Reds' first five exhibition games, he broke in with a 5-for-6 showing in his first two games, including a triple and home run.

And on Sunday, he drove in two runs to lead the Reds' "B" team to a 5-0 victory over Philadelphia. The Cincinnati "A" squad made it a sweep as Joe Morgan, Dan Driessen and Dave Concepcion each had three hits and drove in two runs to lead the way to an 8-3 triumph over the New York Mets.

Ed Sprague and Mel Behney combined for the five-hit shutout that tamed the Phillies. The Reds scored twice off losing pitcher Larry Christenson in the third as Jim Driscoll, who doubled to right, and George Foster, who was hit by a pitch, scored on Tolan's double down the left field line.

Sparky eyes permanent shortstop

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The competition is on again for the job of shortstop with the Cincinnati Reds.

Manager Sparky Anderson had said earlier that he planned to continue platooning Dave Concepcion and Darrel Chaney, but now he would prefer for one of them to win it.

Sunday, both played on different teams and the National League champions took the New York Mets 8-3 at St. Petersburg, Fla. and the Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 at Clearwater, Fla.

"I'd like to have one man take control and win the job," said Anderson.

"That would be better for the second baseman—Joe Morgan— getting to play with one shortstop all the time."

Concepcion, batting .364 this spring, connected for two singles and a double driving in three runs against the Mets.

Chaney, hitting .344, had one hit, stole a base, scored a run and turned in some outstanding fielding plays against Philadelphia.

"Nobody's got better talent than Davey (Concepcion)," said Anderson. "But he's got to earn it. I gave him everything before, now, he's got to show me he can do it."

Dick Weber winner of Ebonite tournament

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dick Weber of St. Louis ended a two-year dry spell by winning the $80,000 Ebonite Open bowling tournament Saturday.

His brother-in-law, Norm Meyers, would have been elated—if he hadn't been Weber's victim in the nationally-televised championship game.

A difference of $4,000 in prize money was at stake. Weber pocketed $10,000 for first place, while Meyers had to settle for $6,000 as runnerup.

Ex-POW to throw 1st ball for Reds

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds announced today that Vietnam POW Air Force Capt. Edward Mechenbier will throw out the first ball on opening day, April 5.

The Reds meet the San Francisco Giants in the first game of the 1973 season.

Mechenbier, a native of Morgantown, W.Va., grew up in Dayton, Ohio.

Jim Colbert Jacksonville Open golf tourney victor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jim Colbert has a strange philosophy, possibly a unique approach to the game of golf.

"My reaction to anything that happens on the golf course is no reaction," the balding little veteran said after his teetertotter triumph in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

"There are no birdies or bogeys, no eagles or double bogeys. They are only numbers. If you can get that way you can play this game. It's my way.

"I did it (won) the hard way. I kept my cool, I did not react to the adversities of the game."

He had those a plenty.

Colbert bogeyed four of his first five holes. He opened with a two stroke lead in the mild, sunny weather of the final day, then found himself four strokes behind Jimmy Wiechers after only five holes.

He regained the lead, built it to two strokes, lost it and dropped behind again, regained it in dramatic fashion and preserved it even more dramatically.

Indiana to meet UCLA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I'm not ready to think about UCLA yet," says Indiana Coach Bob Knight, "...not until next week anyway."

Knight's sixth-ranked Hoosiers, who captured the National Collegiate Athletic Association Mideast Regional basketball title with a 72-65 victory over Kentucky on Saturday, have a week to figure out just how to handle a dynasty.

The Hoosiers, 21-5, move into Saturday's national semifinals at St. Louis for a match with the mighty Bruins, winners of 73 straight games—including the 54-39 West Regional championship over San Francisco—and 34 in a row in NCAA playoff competition.

"I'm glad to have a week to prepare for them rather than a couple of days," Knight said of the nation's top-ranked team.

Before that clash, though, there's an equally important matter to be settled—which team the winner will meet in the title game a week from tonight.

Preceding the UCLA-Indiana game, Ernie DiGregorio and Providence's fourth-ranked Friars, 103-89 victors over Maryland in the East Regional, face 12th-ranked Memphis State, which won the Midwest crown with a 92-72 romp over Kansas State.

On Saturday night, the Guilford, N.C., Quakers beat Maryland-Eastern Shore 99-96 for the championship of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and became the first unseeded team to win the title in the NAIA's 36 tournaments.

Tonight, meanwhile, the National Invitation Tournament's first-round play concludes in New York's Madison Square Garden with Rutgers facing Minnesota and Manhattan opposing Alabama.

In the weekend's opening-round action it was Notre Dame 69, Southern California 65; Louisville 97, American 84; North Carolina 82, Oral Roberts 65; Massachusetts 78, Missouri 71; Fairfield 80, Marshall 76, and Virginia Tech 65, New Mexico 63.

Against Kentucky, the Hoosiers blew a 13-point halftime lead and fell behind with less than eight minutes to play.

"I'm just happy that our kids didn't crack from the pressure of blowing the lead and getting behind," Knight said. "And proud that we were able to regain the momentum we had lost."

Kentucky went to a zone defense to get back in the game. Then Knight decided to move freshman Quinn Buckner from the point to the high post and the Hoosiers were on their way to St. Louis.

Tommy Curtis, the 5-foot-11 UCLA guard, came off the bench midway through the first half, with the Bruins trailing 16-7, put them on the attack and helped pull out the victory over San Francisco's 19th-ranked Dons.

UCLA Coach John Wooden expects Indiana to play at least as deliberately as San Francisco.

"I expect a conservative game," he said. "Their coach, Bobby Knight, usually has one of the top defensive teams in the nation—in statistics. But that's because they hold the ball so much."

Cincinnati Swords set league mark

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Swords hold the record for most victories in a single American Hockey League Season—50—following their defeat of the Springfield Kings, 7-1, Sunday night.

Ironically, the Kings' 1960-61 squad set the old record of 42 and Swords Coach Floyd Smith was a member of that team.

Landing site of Columbus is pinpointed

By HAROLD J. LIDIN

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — A Pulitzer prize-winning authority on Christopher Columbus has added his opinion to the lingering controversy over where the Genoan landed in Puerto Rico.

The Great Discoverer, according to his biographer Samuel E. Morison, first anchored on the west coast of Puerto Rico at a point on Anasco Bay.

Some historians have maintained that Columbus landed in the northwest corner of the island, about 12 miles above where Morison says Columbus first touched shore in Puerto Rico. A third theory holds that Columbus may have gone ashore at Boqueron, on the southwestern corner of the island.

"He couldn't possibly have gone inside Boqueron due to the reefs," Morison asserted emphatically in an interview here. "His first reef-free entry was Anasco." Columbus approached Puerto Rico from St. Croix, in the U.S. Virgin Islands and was steering a northwesterly course.

Morison had flown over the western section of Puerto Rico, accompanied by Aurelio Tio, president of the Puerto Rican Academy of History. After scanning the area from the air the 85-year-old Morison then made an on-the-ground investigation of the place where the Spaniards landed on Nov. 19, 1493.

Morison's findings agree with the theory defended by Tio. The latter's conclusions also rest upon testimony given in a 15th century court battle over the ownership of some property in the vicinity of the landing spot.

The landfall was made, according to Tio, on the northeast side of Anasco Bay at a point called "Ensenada de Rincon."

Morison's research into the Columbus landing is connected to his upcoming work entitled "Columbus — the southern voyages." The book, to be published by Oxford University Press, culminates a lifelong interest in the Columbus saga.

His impatience with historians who produce a book to "prove" a hypothesis boils over quickly when Columbus is the topic.

Spanish authors, over the centuries, have shown unflagging ability to discover "evidence" that Columbus came from Spain and not from Genoa, as has long been generally accepted.

"He came from a family with three generations in Genoa," says Morison.

Opening lead - three of hearts.

The Italian Blue team has won 14 of the last 15 world championships in which it played, but it was not ever thus.

Back in 1951, an American team composed of George Rapee, Sam Stayman, Howard Schenken, John Crawford and this writer journeyed to Naples and easily defeated the Italian team that had won the European championship that year.

The personnel of the Italian team has changed considerably since that time — only Pietro Forquet of the 1951 team has survived the change and, now in his forties, continues to annex one world championship after another.

But in 1951, when Italy participated in its first big international event, their team displayed signs of instability. Today's hand, which produced a 1,500 point gain for the Americans, occurred early in the match.

The irrepressible Crawford, sitting East, opened the bidding with a heart! South passed, for reasons unknown, and I — holding the West cards and not realizing that my dreadful hand was even better than Crawford's — also passed.

The Italian North bid two hearts, presumably showing a good hand, and South responded three notrump. Declarer made 13 tricks without breathing hard and the Italian pair scored 720 points on the deal.

Of course, North-South realized they had suffered a huge loss by failing to undertake a laydown grandslam, and that their bidding methods were not geared to dealing with phony bids.

The American pair at the other table got to the grand slam in gang-bang style. The bidding went:

North knew that South had at least 18 points for his jump rebid of two notrump and that making all 13 tricks was therefore a virtual certainty.

Why the Elderly Break Hips

Why do so many older people break their hips with a simple fall?

I am concerned about my mother who is 82 years old. How can we help to prevent such a possibility?

Mrs. P.J.G., Calif.

Dear Mrs. G.:

The bone structure of the hip joint as well as other bones of the body is more brittle and fragile in the elderly. Absorption of calcium weakens the bones and fractures occur more frequently than in the young.

It must be remembered, too, that the elderly may be less steady and may more easily trip and fall with the slightest imbalance. Their reflex protective action may be diminished and injuries result. It is surprising how often hip fractures occur even in strong, vital people who are not chronically considered "elderly." These painful fractures often take many months before they are completely healed.

Special precautions and simple safety measure in and outside of the home can prevent these injuries. Adequate lighting, handrails on steps and stairways, nonskid rugs add immeasurably to avoiding hip fractures.

Floors should not be highly polished. Objects on the floor can become obstacles. Electrical wires, grandchildren's toys and cleaning equipment are common hazards.

Comfortable house slippers should not have "slippery" sole.

The bathroom presents a real threat to the elderly. Getting in and out of the tub must be done with the greatest care. Nonskid mats can be very effective in preventing slipping in the tub. There should be one or more handrails for the aging person to grasp.

Many people now are wisely accepting the use of a non-slip cane when walking outdoors. Even in good weather small irregularities and cracks in the sidewalk or road make tripping and falling easier.

Those who are too vain to use a cane should remember that a protective cane is better used before an accident than for the many months following a hip fracture that might have been prevented.

Is it common for phlebitis to follow pregnancy?

Mrs. E. T., Maine

Dear Mrs. T.:

It is not uncommon, but fewer and fewer cases develop now that pregnancies are followed so diligently from their onset. The early recognition of phlebitis may lend itself to treatment.

The progressive enlargement of the uterus (womb) makes pressure on the veins within the pelvis, and interferes with the free flow of blood.

When stagnation of blood occurs, there is a tendency to develop both phlebitis, inflammation of the veins, and trombo-phlebitis (clotting within the vein).

Mild, regulated exercise and the absence of tobacco may help reduce the possibility of these conditions.

Patients are encouraged, following surgery and following the delivery of a baby, to be up and about to stimulate their blood circulation.

Area Guidance Center seeks more funding

A request for increase support of the Scioto Paint Valley Guidance Center was submitted Monday to the Fayette County Board of Commissioners by Mrs. Jean Craig, Fayette County representative on the five-county guidance center board.

Kite flying warning issued

It's kite flying time again and the Dayton Power and Light Co. issued a warning for boys and girls to be especially careful about flying kites near electric lines.

George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager, said that many kite flyers are using cords strengthened with steel strands. This type of cord can be especially dangerous because it makes an excellent conductor of electricity if it happens to touch an electric wire. A severe shock can result, said Winkle.

He also pointed out that conventional cords could conduct electricity on damp days. He warned kite flyers not to rescue their kites if they should become tangled in an electric line.

Blackwell suffered burns and multiple fractures of his right leg. He was rushed to the Brook Army Medical Unit here where his condition had been reported as "serious but stable."

WPAFB crowd welcomes 8 returning Viet POWs

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sustained by what one called "our faith in God, our faith in country and our faith in fellow man," eight returned prisoners of war began getting reacquainted today with loved ones they had left behind.

The eight men from four states—all Air Force pilots—arrived at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base Sunday to joyful, tearful reunions with family and friends.

They were to undergo medical and intelligence debriefings at the base hospital before heading home. Air Force officials said initial examinations showed "all in good health."

Each of the men stepped briskly off the Air Force C-9 Nightingale tha' brought them here from Scott AFB, Ill., shook hands with two senior Air Force officers, saluted the colors, then walked to a microphone for brief remarks.

From there, it was just a few steps to the waiting arms of loved ones. General Jack J. Catton, commander of the Air Force Logistics Command a one of the welcoming officers, repeated brushed tears from his eyes as he watched the reunions along with about 300 spectators.

Col. Robert R. Sawhill, 42, of Carnegie, Pa., the ranking officer in the group was first off the plane. He called the homecoming, "the happiest day of my life."

"I want to thank all of those responsible for making this homecoming possible—our President, my fellow members in the military services, you the America people," said Sawhill, shot down Aug. 23, 1967.

Following him off the plane, listed in order of their date of capture were:

Lima POW welcomed back home

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Army M. Sgt. Donat Gouin puffed steadily on a large cigar as he was officially welcomed home Sunday after five years as a Viet Cong military prisoner.

"I'm happy to be back," he said in response to greetings from a half dozen local officials during a program at the Lima Mall.

More than 1,000 persons turned out to welcome the sergeant who had returned from Ft. Knox, Ky., Saturday night. His official welcome was delayed overnight due a snow storm.

A drum and bugle corps played "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," as Gouin was escorted to the speakers platform by a color guard from the local Veterans of Foreign Ware chapter.

Mayor Christian Morris presented him a key to the city and a Proclamation declaring Sunday "Sgt. Don Gouin Day."

Chamber of Commerce President Robert Tract said Gouin would receive as gifts a supply of cigars Gouin said he had missed during captivity.

"I don't know what to say," Gouin said in response, "except thank you to my fellow Americans."

Gouin was near retirement after more than 20 years in the Army when he was captured. He is on a 90-day leave and indicated his plans for the future are uncertain.

Lost plane is sought

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)— The Civil Air Patrol, hoping for better weather, planned to resume its search today for a small plane missing since Friday with three servicemen aboard.

The CAP said the Cessna 172 single-engine private plane left Ft. Eustis, near Williamsburg, at 6:18 p. m. Friday on a nonstop flight to Roanoke. There has been no word on it since.

Officials at Ft. Eustis said the plane was piloted by Pvt. Richard W. Buckert, 21, of Monmouth, Ill. The passengers were identified as Pvt. Frederick W. Gottel, 20, of Parma, Ohio, and Pvt. William G. Lancaster, 21, of Rochester, Ind.

All were assigned to Co. A at Ft. Eustis.

High winds and cloudy skies hampered fruitless search efforts Saturday and Sunday, a CAP spokesman said.

The spokesman said Sunday the CAP is "following up a lead in Pittsylvania County" south of here, but declined to elaborate. It also was reported the CAP was checking on leads in Franklin County southwest of Roanoke.

Legion opposes amnesty, Hughey Post speaker says

The American Legion is strongly opposed to amnesty for the men who fled the country to avoid the draft during the Vietnam War, Donald L. Gruenbaum, of Marysville, national vice commander, emphasized in his address at the Paul H. Hughey Legion Post 25 birthday dinner here Saturday night.

He pointed out that the Legion has spent much time and effort to get the Vietnam prisoners of war released and back home and commented that it has endorsed the way their release and return has been handled by the military and by the Nixon administration. The American Legion, he said, will lend a hand to returning veterans by helping them with employment and educational opportunities.

He declared that the organization "always has been and will continue to be, a staunch advocate of the maintenance of such military strength as is necessary to insure security and freedom of the American people, and it has no intention of retreating from this position, no matter how unpopular it may become." Obviously, the reference was to the anti-war demonstrations during the war in Southeast Asia.

MORE THAN 150 Legionnaires and their wives attended the 54th birthday anniversary dinner in the Post 25 home. Commander Ed Warning presided for the after-dinner program.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. William E. Williams, president of the Post auxiliary.

One of the highlights of the evening came with the recognition given the winners of the Legion-sponsored Americanism and Government Essay Contest by Commander Warning. Six of them were from Washington Senior High School — Jill Williams, David Mustine, Keith Stimpert, Ann O'Malley, Steve Hill and Kathy Binzel — and six from Miami Trace High School — Gerald Reid, Jo Lynn Rapp, Lora Brooks, David Louis, David Foster and Susan Thacker, a district winner. Most of those at the meeting were accompanied by their parents.

Among the guests introduced by Hargis Ramey were Past State Commander Roger Smith and Past District Commander Dudley Radcliff, both of Circleville and Charles Harris, finance officer of Homer Lawson Post 653 here. Gene Ladrach, of Washington C. H., and Jim Cleveland, of Chillicothe vice presidents, represented the district. Most of them also were accompanied by their wives.

Following the benediction by the chaplain, the Rev. Cloyce Copley, there was dancing in the club room.

GI returns as freed POW; army eyes desertion claim

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — "It's been a long time...and it's good to know somebody cares," freed POW Spec-4 Michael P. Branch told a welcoming crowd as he returned to his native Kentucky after almost five years in captivity.

The slim, dark-haired Highland Heights native touched down briefly at Louisville's Standiford Field before boarding a helicopter for Ireland Army Hospital at Ft. Knox, where he was to undergo medical checks and debriefing starting today.

"I don't really know what to say, but I'm glad to get back home," the 25-year-old soldier said, "I came all the way from the Phillipines to see a crowd of people and know that they care. It's good to know somebody cares. God bless you.

When he landed at Ft. Knox, he was greeted with hugs by two brothers and a sister. He ignored a microphone set up for him to address a crowd of about 60 persons who showed up, and went inside the Army hospital to rejoin the rest of his family.

His mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Branch, and his three brothers and three sisters had come to the base from their home in northern Kentucky earlier in the day.

Other members of Ft. Thomas, her husband John, and three of their children, were also on hand to greet the returning soldier.

Branch's wife, Mrs. Marilyn L. Branch of Indianapolis, is not scheduled to meet Branch until Thursday. The couple has two children.

Branch is among is among eight former prisoners of war whose names have been linked to antiwar statements and messages. He allegedly was identified by Radio Hanoi as sending a message saying he was a deserter from the U.S. Army.

Andrews quitting as GOP chairman; ponder successor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — John Andrews, Ohio's Republican Party chairman for eight years, Sunday night confirmed rumors he would resign to accept a job in industry.

"I will be 54-years-old and have been in politics for 18-years and always planned to eventually return to private industry and I think this is the proper time," Andrews said.

Andrews reportedly wrote state committeemen telling them of his intentions to resign and calling for a meeting of the party's Central Committee April 5, to discuss his replacement.

The Republican chairman has been at the center of a rift in party forces between Ohio U.S. Sen. Robert Taft Jr. and former Gov. James Rhodes.

Dissatisfaction with Andrews reportedly arose following heavy Republican setbacks in the state in 1970. That dissatisfaction worsened when Democrats made further political gains in state House and Senate seats last November.

Taft said in Cincinnati that Andrews' resignation came as a complete surprise to him. He did not speculate on a successor. He said that decision would be up to the Central Committee and would take a lot of discussion.

The rift between Taft and Andrews reportedly developed because Taft felt Andrews supported Rhodes' candidacy in the Taft-Rhodes Senate primary fight in 1970, which Taft won.

Rhodes came to Andrews' defense when some party members joined in a move to reorganize the party and oust Andrews following the 1970 election upsets. At that time Rhodes called Andrews the "best state chairman in the nation."

There will be "no great thrashing around of the party to re-elect Andrews' successor," according to Robert Rowley, chairman of the Lucas County Republican Party.

He said Andrews would retain his position on the state central committee as a representative from the Ninth Congressional District at Toledo, an elected post.

Rowley named four men as possible candidates to head the party. They are state GOP Vice Chairman Ken McGough of Lima; Cuyahoga County Republican Chairman Bob Hughes; Chuck Ross of Dayton, state chairman of the Committee to Re-elect the President, and Hamilton County GOP Chairman Earl Barnes.

Senate studies wage, price control change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opening debate on renewing presidential authority for wage-price controls, the Senate is considering a range of amendments that would give Congress a voice in managing the economy.

The key issue under debate today was extension of the Economic Stabilization Act for another year past its April 30 expiration. President Nixon used the act as authority for the 1971 wage-price freeze, the mandatory Phase 2 controls and the largely voluntary Phase 3 program.

But the Senate has a variety of proposals that would give the President more than he asked. Most of these were pushed by Democrats during Banking Committee consideration of the bill.

Proposed amendments would:

—Restore federal controls on rent for one year in most metropolitan areas with low vacancy rates. There are no rent controls under Phase 3, and many tenant organizations are protesting that landlords imposed big rent increases when Phase 2 expired in January.

—Restore the required federal approval of wage settlements hammered out by big unions and corporations, as well as price increases. This requirement was a major part of mandatory controls under Phase 2.

While the government has not spelled out exactly what is required under the new program, the Phase 3 regulations are mandatory only for the health, food and construction industries.

—Limit the amount of a wage hike a large business can pass on in price increases.

—Put a $265-billion spending limit on the fiscal year starting July 1.

PUCO probes derailment fatal to man; 20 injured

EAST PALESTINE, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Public Utilities Commission (PUCO) today continued its investigation of a train derailment that killed one man and injured 20 more when five cars of Amtrak's Broadway Limited derailed Sunday.

The mishap occurred in a heavy snowstorm early Sunday morning. Four of the five cars overturned, splintering utility poles and shearing off the glass front of a nearby Adamson Manufacturing Co. plant.

The derailment occurred about 15 miles south of Youngstown in East Palestine. The train was on Penn Central tracks at the time.

Penn Central officials said that an earlier accident involving a freight train may have led to the derailment, according to PUCO Chairman Henry W. Eckhart.

Eckhart said Penn Central officials told him that the freight train had separated in the vicinity of the derailment about two hours earlier. He said the front cars of the train made an emergency stop and that the rear cars collided with them causing a kink in the tracks.

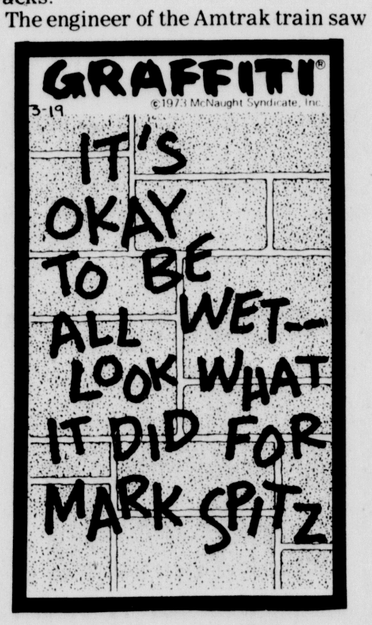
The engineer of the Amtrak train saw the kink when his train came along and attempted to stop. The last five cars of his train jumped the track when he stopped.

Eckhart said a full investigation of both incidents will be undertaken by his office.

After the derailment, the first eight cars of the Amtrak train went on to Chicago with all the passengers who wanted to continue the trip. The train first stopped to pick up 17 passengers who had been treated at a local a hospital.

The train was en route to Chicago from New York.

The dead man, George Wintoniak, 53, of Haverford, Pa., was a Penn Central engineer traveling as a passenger. Columbiana County Coroner William A. Kolozsi said the man died of a severe head injury.



Air crash fatal to 58

SAIGON (AP) — An Air Vietnam airliner crashed in flames today while coming in to land at the Ban Me Thuot airport in the central highlands, killing at least 58 persons.

There were no survivors.

Among the victims were three Americans—the pilot, copilot and one passenger—and two Japanese. The rest were Vietnamese.

A government spokesman said the DC4 carried 62 persons, but the Air Vietnam manifest listed 53 passengers and five crew members.

The crash occurred about six miles southwest of Ban Me Thuot as the plane was making its final landing approach on a flight from Saigon.

U.S. sources said there were no indications that the plane had been hit by ground fire, but the possibility of that would be investigated.

21 inches of snow in southern Michigan

Eastern storm loss heavy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High winds, angry Great Lakes and a punishing snowfall in the East, intensive flooding in the South, rain and snow in the West—winter isn't through with the United States just yet.

A storm walloped the Great Lakes region, leaving as much as 21 inches of snow in lower Michigan, and flooded towns on the Ohio shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The cleanup continued today as snows lingered in the East and winds from 35 to 75 miles per hour lashed 20-foot waves on the Great Lakes and 10-foot snow drifts ashore.

Gale warnings were posted for lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario and for the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Maine as the storm moved out of the U.S.

About 5,000 persons were stranded on highways in Lower Michigan and many roads remained closed early today. Interstate 94 was closed west of Marshall, Mich.

About 400 persons were put up in churches and schools in Michigan. Flood waters in Bay County were receding and residents began to return to their homes. No deaths were directly attributed to the storms, but several persons suffered heart attacks while awaiting rescue.

Dozens of families in the Rochester, N.Y., suburb of Greece, one of the hardest hit by lake waves, remained with friends and relatives Sunday night. Lake Ontario is at its highest level since 1952.

Flood waters continue to pound areas of the lower Mississippi Valley, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee. Property damage is estimated at $35 million and more than 1,000 families have been forced from their homes in Chattanooga, Tenn. Tennessee's governor has asked President Nixon to declare 39 counties a disaster area.

In Mississippi, Gov. Bill Waller estimated flood damage at $25 million, and said the Delta region was "almost one solid sheet of water. Nearly 1,000 persons were forced out of their homes at Columbus, and 400 at Greenwood. All major roads to Columbus, with the exception of U.S. 82, were closed.

An intense storm off the Washington coast has brought rain to the Pacific Northwest. Gale warnings are up from the northern California to the Washington coasts. Winds were clocked at 60 miles per hour.

Light snow or rain touched the Rockies and moved into the Plains region. Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at Evanston, Wyo. to 68 at Corpus Christi, Tex.

Northern Ohioans today were still digging out from under a late winter storm that was anticipated if not expected when it raked across the state this weekend, stacking up 10-foot drifts and causing flooding.

Several hundred people were forced to abandon low-lying homes along the Lake Erie shoreline in the storm's fury, and the threat of strong lake winds and additional flooding continued today.

Only snow flurries were forecast across most of northern Ohio, however, as snowplows and city graders turned most snow-clogged roads and streets into passable byways Sunday night.

The storm followed rapidly falling temperatures across northern Ohio, which had experienced unseasonably warm temperatures in past weeks.

And the northeasterly lake winds, which sent 15-foot waves crashing into the shoreline, confirmed predictions that high lake levels make the northwestern Ohio shoreline extremely vulnerable to flooding this spring.

Virtually all of the schools in Mahoning and Trumbull counties, hardest hit by the snowstorm, were closed today. Strong, icy winds drifted the snow into 10-foot stacks, closing highways and city streets in both cities.

Interstate travel and major city streets were cleared by Sunday afternoon, although counties across the northern end of the state reported minor roads still snowbound through the day.

At least four persons died of heart attacks while shoveling snow Sunday,

RESCUE WORKERS IN FLOODED AREA — Members of the local rescue squad move into an apartment complex in Huntsville, Ala. to evacuate persons stranded in the wake of flash flooding caused by some seven inches of rain in 18 hours. No serious injuries were reported in this aerospace city of 138,000.

Weekend's blizzard conditions create traffic nightmare here

Blizzard-like conditions Saturday, which left area roads ice covered and drifted, were blamed for most of the 37 traffic accidents reported in the city-county area over the weekend.

The Sheriff's Department investigated 28 of the property damage crashes and reported numerous other vehicles had slid off the roadways but were not damaged. Sheriff Don Thompson said it was the worst weekend his department had experienced.

Drifts of more than three feet were reported on some county roads and State Highway Department crews were hard pressed to keep one lane open for traffic during the worst of the snowstorm.

Officers reported some minor injuries in the mishaps but none serious enough to require treatment at Memorial Hospital.

A two-car crash on Ohio 41, just north of Hickory Lane at 5 p.m. Saturday resulted in one citation and moderate property damage.

Sheriff's deputies said a car driven by Lillian F. Fisher, 42, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville was northbound and had slowed at the scene of an earlier accident when a car driven by Roy V. Sword, 46, Rt. 4, skidded into the rear of the Fisher auto.

SWORD was cited for failure to maintain assured clear distance.

Ruth A. Jones, 34, of 1253 High St., was charged with failure to yield right of way after a two-car crash at the intersection of Fayette Street and Circle Avenue at 10:59 a.m. Saturday.

Police said the eastbound Jones car pulled from Circle Avenue into the path of the southbound car driven by Gary G. Campbell, 21, of 641 W. Oakland Ave.

Both cars were heavily damaged in the mishap.

Police cited Theodore Black, 20, of 122 W. Market St., for backing without safety in a minor collision on Forest Street, just west of Rose Avenue, at 11:40 a.m. Saturday.

Black was backing from a parking lot and backed across Forest Street, colliding with a parked car owned by Orval J. Ray, of 262 S. Main St., police reported.

Damage was moderate.

Other mishaps involving the following drivers were investigated by city police and sheriff's departments.

Indians reject federal plan to 'heal' Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Indians occupying the village of Wounded Knee say the government's proposed solution to the 20-day-old confrontation amounts to total surrender by the Indians.

American Indian Movement (AIM) leader Russell Means, promising "a final ultimatum" sometime today, said "the proposal we make will be the deciding factor in whether the negotiations continue."

"Our statement will bring the confrontation to a head," Means said after a meeting with federal negotiators in Wounded Knee Sunday.

Means said the government offer Saturday by Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Harlington Wood "amounts to total capitulation, total surrender" on the part of the Indians.

Wood had said the offer was the best one the government could make. Wood, Wayne Colburn, director of the U.S. Marshal Services, and Richard Hellstern, an assistant to Wood, talked for 2½ hours with the Indian leaders in Wounded Knee about the government's threephase proposal.

Following that meeting Wood said he expects more negotiations.

Asked if the meeting had been productive, he said, "I think that as long as we're talking together, we're making progress. We're just trying to do our best to get it over. The Indian people during this process of negotiation have been very decent."

26 American POWs fly home from Clark Air Base

By KRIS LILJEHOLM
Associated Press Writer

Two planes carried 26 American prisoners of war across the Pacific today toward reunions with families and friends. Among them was the longest held American POW, Army Maj. Floyd J. Thompson, to be met by a 9-year-old son he has never seen.

Also in the group which left Clark Air Base in the Philippines in C141 StarLifters Sunday evening were Philip W. Manhard, 51, of McLean, Va., the highest-ranking U.S. diplomat held captive, and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert J. Flynn, 36, of Colorado Springs, Colo., freed Thursday by the Chinese. The other 25 are the last of 134 military men and six civilians freed last week in Hanoi by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

By North Vietnamese count, 147 American prisoners are still to be released by March 28.

Meanwhile, 56 former POWs prepared for extensive medical examinations today after warm welcomes Sunday at military installations from California to Maryland.

"Wonderful! Wonderful! Wonderful!" repeated Air Force Capt. William W. Butler, 32, of San Rafael, Calif., as he accepted handshakes and hugs from some of the 1,000 wellwishers greeting the group of 20 men landing at Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

"We're back in our land and we're back with our people and we are humbly grateful to God and to you our countrymen for bringing us home," said Navy Capt. Leo T. Profilet of Palo Alto, Calif., tears welling up behind a bright smile.

At Camp Lejeune, N.C., Lt. Col. Jerry W. Marvel, 39, told 1,000 persons who turned out to greet him: "I don't know the words to say how happy I am to be here tonight. I was very fortunate in Hanoi to learn the meaning of a very small word that we sometimes take for granted.

"The word is faith. Faith in God and faith in our country, faith in our President, faith in my family and faith in my fellow prisoners."

Of the 26 flying home toward similar reunions today, Maj. Thompson of Hudson, Mass., had reason to be one of the most eager. "I'm anxious to see my family, but especially my son," he said before leaving Clark. "He's nine years old and I've never seen him." The boy was born March 27, 1964, the day after Thompson was captured in Quang Tri Province when his plane was downed during a reconnaissance mission.

The second plane is to land at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., and go on to Scott Air Force Base, Ill. Marine Sgt. Ronald L. Ridegway, 23, of Houston, Tex., is among the 14 men aboard that plane. He was mistakenly declared dead in August 1968 after the bodies of several men were found in an abandoned outpost where his squad was ambushed.

Dollar fluctuates in nervous market trading

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The floating American dollar rose strongly at the opening of foreign exchanges around the world after a two-week shutdown, and the Bank of Japan sold an estimated $50 million to keep the rate from rising too fast.

But by noon in Europe, the value of the U.S. money was edging down in brisk but nervous trading. Big money operators appeared holding off while they watched for indications whether the international decisions in Paris Friday had ended the two-month monetary crisis.

U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, conferred for an hour with British Prime Minister Edward Heath in London. Shultz reportedly pressed for quick moves to reform the international trading system to give American exporters better competitive access to world markets.

Shultz also met with Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber.

Tokyo dealers reported an acute shortage of dollars in the Japanese capital after the two-week shutdown of exchanges. The Tokyo market was the first to reopen because of the time differential. The central bank's intervention was designed to keep the dollar's rate close to the level between Feb. 14, when the yen was floated, and March 2, when the exchanges closed.

In London, the pound declined sharply at the opening to $2.45 but by noon it had climbed back by a full cent, almost reaching Friday's closing rate in bank-to-bank trading of $2.4610.

In the key Frankfurt market, the dollar opened at 2.8350 marks, 21.5 pfennigs above Friday's close. But by noon the dollar had edged back to .82 marks.

The dollar was also up sharply in Zurich at the pening, being quoted at 3.2650 Swiss Francs, more than three centimmes over Friday's rate. But by noon, the rate had dropped to 3.24 francs.

The closing rate in Tokyo was 264.90 yen, down from 266.50 on March 1 but up from Friday's 260.50.

The price of gold, which soared to a record $95 an ounce at the peak of the money crisis, was $81 in Zurich and London, drops of $1.50 and $1.75 from the price Friday.

Finance ministers of the major non-Communist trading nations agreed in Paris on Friday that all major currencies would float freely in relation to the dollar according to supply and demand forces in the market place.

The move, putting an end to the 29-year-old Breton Woods system of fixed parities, means no state bank is committed any longer to support the dollar at a fixed value. For an indefinite period, "speculators will speculate against speculators" and not against state banks, as one American informant put it.

Gilligan urges equal rights amendment OK

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan has urged members of the Ohio House to vote for ratification of the Equal Rights amendment, contending Ohio's action will be "pivotal" in the campaign to amend the U. S. Constitution to assure women's equality.

Gilligan wrote a letter to each of the 99 House members asking them to support the proposed amendment, noting 28 states have ratified it and 10 more are needed.

"Passage now of the ERA by the Ohio General Assembly would provide a vital thrust forward for the ERA campaign," Gilligan said.

Zoo animals feeling pinch

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Most of the Cincinnati Zoo's 2,500 meat-eating residents are bearing up under substitutes forced by the inflated price of meat.

Horsemeat has gone up from 28.5 cents a pound a year ago to 50.5 cents and zoologist Barry Wakeman says the zoo can't afford it.

The animals eat about 2,500 pounds a week for an annual meat bill of $65,000, up from $33,800.

Heavy storm loss

but no other storm-related deaths were reported.

Hundreds of motorists were stranded along highways, but all were picked up by state patrolmen and ferried to rest areas, service stations and motels.

State agriculture officials believe that the weekend freezing temperatures and heavy snows may have caused serious damage to Ohio's fruit crops.

Ohio Agriculture Department Director Gene R. Abercrombie said that without a doubt the peach crop has been damaged. Last year's bad weather caused almost a complete loss of the peach crop.

Abercrombie said that damage done to apples and grapes depends on the variety of the fruit.

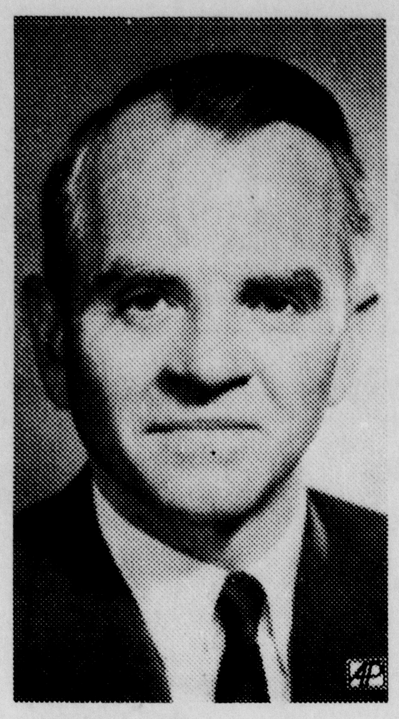
Dr. Howard Rollins, chairman of the Ohio State University Horticulture Department, said frozen buds are the big problem, and that if the temperature falls below 28 degrees for an extended period of time while trees are in full bloom, very serious damage could result.

The unseasonable warm weather Ohio has been having caused trees to bloom early, particularly the peach trees, according to Rollins.

It would be remarkable if fruit growers came through the weekend cold spell without heavy damage, Rollins said.

An exact estimate of the damage done will not be available for several days until the growers are able to assess the situation.

Dan Tucker, agriculture statistician for the Ohio Crop Reporting Service, said the peach crop normally brings about $2 million annually to the state, grapes bring about $1½ million and apples bring about $8 million.



NEW IRS CHIEF — Donald C. Alexander, nationally known tax expert and Cincinnati lawyer, is reported under consideration to replace Johnnie M. Walters as U. S. Internal Revenue Service commissioner. Alexander was a consultant to the Treasury Department in 1966-68 and was vice chairman of the American Bar Association's section of taxation in 1967-68.

Cambodian malcontent escapes

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian pilot who bombed President Lon Nol's palace, killing at least 36 persons but not the president, apparently made a successful getaway to Communist territory.

The Cambodian Air Force T28 fighter that Capt. So Potra used in the assassination attempt Saturday was last seen over Kompong Cham province, northeast of Phnom Penh. He was believed to have landed at an air strip in the two-thirds of Cambodia controlled by the Khmer Rouge, the country's Communist movement, and their North Vietnamese allies.

Potra was reported to be the lover of Princess Norodom Botum Bopha, daughter of the chief of state deposed by Lon Nol, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. But some American sources suggested that Potra was angry because he had failed flight training.

Lon Nol in a broadcast charged that the assassination attempt was part of a Communist plot to overthrow his government.

Potra's bombs missed the presidential palace but hit the guards' compound nearby, razing more than 100 closely packed shacks. Searchers recovered 36 bodies, and more than 50 persons were injured.

Lon Nol barred foreigners from leaving the country, closed all newspapers except the government's and strengthened the watch on members of the royal family.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The National Weather Service reported today the storm system is weakening, causing high winds to subside across Lake Erie. All shore erosion warnings were lowered early today west of Erie, Pa.

Much of the state was expected to have sunshine today as temperatures climb into the 40s and 50s. Winds will at 20 to 25 miles per hour, and cloudiness is predicted to prevail most of the day over the northeast.

Tuesday's highs will again be in the 40s and 50s, with overnight lows tonight forecast in the upper 20s and lower 30s.

Prater trial resumes

ERIE, Pa. (AP) — Defense attorney M. David Rothman expects to open his case by midweek in the Yablonski murder trial of William Prater, and his first witness may be former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

As testimony entered its eighth day today, prosecutor Richard Sprague had called 43 witnesses in an effort to prove Prater helped plan the 1969 killings of UMW rebel Joseph "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

Rothman, of Pittsburgh, contacted Boyle last week through Boyle's attorney and requested his appearance as a witness. Boyle defeated Yablonski in a bitter election for the presidency of the UMW just three weeks prior to the Dec. 31, 1969, killings.

Red supply flow into South continues despite warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources report that military equipment has continued to flow from North Vietnam since President Nixon warned Hanoi to stop infiltrating South Vietnam.

"It's still going on," one source said. He indicated Sunday there has been no measurable slowdown of such movements in the wake of Nixon's statement last Thursday that the North Vietnamese "should not lightly disregard" U.S. expressions of concern.

Meanwhile, intelligence analysts estimate that the North Vietnamese have sent between 400 and 450 armored vehicles, including tanks, into South Vietnam in the less than two months since the Vietnam cease-fire.

U.S. officials view these and other movements as serious violations of the cease-fire agreement which forbids any shipment of military gear into South Vietnam except on a strictly limited basis under international supervision.

"We're not very sanguine about the international supervisory machinery working," a Pentagon official said.

Intelligence specialists say some of the new tanks reported in South Vietnam since the cease-fire came down from southern China, where they were stockpiled until the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam was halted.

According to fresh estimates, more than 1,100 trucks moved across the demilitarized zone from North Vietnam into South Vietnam in the week ended last Thursday, the day Nixon issued his warning to Hanoi.

In that same week, sources said, about 200 trucks rolled down the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos.

Analysts said that some 10,000 tons of supplies have moved through one pass from North Vietnam into Laos since Feb. 1.

BLAST IN DENVER — One person was killed and a dozen Denver policemen injured in a shooting-bombing incident near the headquarters of the Crusade for Justice in Denver. Police officer Stephen H. Snyder was shot when he attempted to arrest a man for creating a disturbance when the shooting broke out among onlookers. During the shooting Snyder was shot three times but managed to shoot and kill his assailant. The bomb went off shortly after other officers arrived on the scene.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices fell precipitiously today as investors took a cool glance at the sharp spurt in the prime lending rate at two major New York banks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 8.20 at 954.85. Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 3 to 1.

Referring to the ½ per cent hike in the prime lending rate to 6¾ per cent by Manufacturers Hanover Trust and Marine Midland, Newton Zinder, analyst with E. F. Hutton Co., said: "The market suddenly got hit by something which, though not completely surprising, wasn't expected this morning."

Hughes & Hatcher was volume leader on the Big Board, down ⅝ to 8⅛ after a 124,600 block share traded earlier at 8, down ¾.

Other Big Board prices included CIT Financial, off 1 to 42; International Telephone, down 1½ to 48½; Walt Disney, down 1½ to 94⅞; and Levitz Furniture, which recently reported higher earnings, up ⅞ to 14⅜.

Pair wed on cycles

MILLWOOD, Ohio (AP) — The bride wore white slacks, a black windbreaker, a burgundy turtleneck sweater and brown boots. So did the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Knoff of Mt. Vernon roared to their wedding on twin motorcycles. They became man and wife at the Caves Campground in Knox County, about a mile and a half east of here.

The 45 guests then mounted their bikes and wheeled down Ohio 36 to Mt. Vernon for the reception. The bride, formerly Carolyn Spearman of Fredericktown, "about froze to death and I lover her for it," Knoff said.

Carolyn was a waitress in a Mt. Vernon restaurant. Three months ago she waited on Knoff, and that's how it all started.

Laurel Oaks students win awards in competition

Several students at Laurel Oaks Vocational School recently won awards in academic competitions.

Three students swept the first, second and third places in data processing competition in business-office education vocational competition held at Norwood High School. Ann Fischer of Milford was first. Steve Dodd, Greenfield McClain, and Sherry Shackelford, Hillsboro, were second and third. They are students of William Hughes.

Dorothy Hribar's students swept the two positions in accounting competition. Karen Flora, Wilmington, was first in accounting, and Jerome Harris, Princeton, was second. Ann Fischer was also an easy winner in the talent contest. Ann sang her own composition, accompanying herself on the guitar. Sherry Shackelford was third in extemporaneous speech. These winners will move on to the state tournaments March 31 in Columbus.

Laurel's sister school, Scarlet Oaks, Sharonville, also grabbed some winners' spots. Pat Ader, Sycamore; Pam Beamer, Madeira, and Denise Arlinghaus, Loveland, placed first, second and third in senior offset reproduction. Susan Issenman, Reading; Kim Lippmeier, Greenhills, and Marla Gold, Taylor, placed first, second and third in junior offset reproduction. Pam Reynolds, Milford, was first in clerk-typist competition; Paula Losey, Princeton, was first in prepared speech. Vicki Lawrence, Princeton, was third in the senior clerk-typist contest. The junior scrapbook placed first, the senior scrapbook placed third in this competition. The junior Scarlet Oaks chapter display placed second.

43rd All-Ohio Safety Congress set in Columbus

A pioneer in the continuing effort to curb narcotic and drug abuse will be a featured speaker at the 43rd All-Ohio Safety Congress and Exhibit to be held April 10, 11 and 12 at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel in Columbus.

Burt C. Haddad, founder and executive director of Cleveland's Narcotic and Drug Education Institute, will address the Veterans of Safety at 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 11, in the Mediterranean-Caribbean Room of the Sheraton-Columbus.

The NDEI has become an authoritative source of knowledge for those charged with the responsibility for narcotic and drug control since Haddad brought it into being as a speakers bureau in 1967.

Haddad, who has served as an investigator with the Cleveland Department of Public Safety, a supervising agent of the Ohio Sales and Excise Tax Commission, and as a U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Department agent during World War II, has headed his own public accounting and auditing firm in Cleveland for the past 25 years.

Haddad's audience will be comprised of industrial accident and disease prevention specialists from throughout Ohio, as well as from a number of other states and foreign countries, who gather in the Ohio capital city some 5,000 strong each year to exchange ideas and learn of the latest in safety and hygiene information, equipment and techniques.

"The problem to which Haddad will address himself concerns industrial accident and disease prevention specialists specifically to the extent that narcotic and drug use could effect a worker's ability to perform his job safely," Superintendent Thomas W. Gallagher of the Industrial Commission of Ohio's Division of Safety and Hygiene said in announcing the narcotic and drug control expert's appearance. The Division is sponsor of the All-Ohio Safety Congress and Exhibit.

The Congress is open to the public and registration is free.

School lunch expansion

Rising food prices are having an adverse impact not only on family budgets but on the school lunch program. Without positive remedial action, the number of children who benefit will decline rather than increase as Congress intended when it established this program.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey aptly summed up the situation when he introduced legislation on the subject. Noting that inflation and other factors have brought nearly a 10 per cent increase since the start of the school year in the cost of serving a school lunch, Humphrey told his fellow senators: "Unless these increases are defrayed by the federal government schools will be forced to increase lunch prices — if they already have not — and fewer children will be able to participate. That is not the reason the Congress passed the National School Lunch Act. We want to serve nutritious meals to more children, rather than fewer."

School districts now are guaranteed a payment of eight cents by the federal government for every lunch served under the program, and 40 cents for each free lunch served to a needy child. Humphrey proposes to raise the basic reimbursement figure from eight to 12 cents, with a corresponding increase in the reimbursement for lunches served to needy children without cost.

This is directed at easing the pinch on the local schools so that they will be able to continue and expand their lunch programs. In addition, Humphrey would add a new element: he proposes a federally supported nutrition education program in the schools. His plan also establishes target dates: June 30, 1975, as the time when every school district with a food service program in some schools must extend this to all schools; the start of school in September 1975 as the time when food service under the National School Lunch Act must be provided in all schools where needy children are enrolled.

Obviously it is going to cost substantially more money to expand the school lunch program and initiate federal support of a widespread nutrition education program in the schools. Something else is obvious: sound nutrition for school-age children is a basic element in public health. Over the long haul, the benefits will far outmeasure the cost in tax revenue.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Uncle Sam's pale face should be red

I wish I could get the hang of the Indian troubles at Wounded Knee in South Dakota. A young friend of mine who is part Indian insists that the action of the AIM (American Indian Movement) dissidents is legal, being nothing more or less than a petition for redress of grievances. But a petition for a redress, to be constitutional, must be delivered from a legitimate territorial base. Trespass and petitions don't go together. So the question arises, who owns the Wounded Knee trading post anyway? If it is Indian territory, why do Indians even have to go through the motions of seizing it?

One answer would seem to be that, while the Indians have a shadowy sovereignty on their own reservations, it is the Department of the Interior that is the real boss insofar as the law is concerned. In a sense, our Federal Government, in guaranteeing the Pine Ridge Reservation to the Indians, has been just another Indian giver. We grant, but we don't grant. So what we have is not Indian sovereignty but a wardocracy.

THE WHOLE THING is complicated by the fact that the Wounded Knee revolt on the Pine Ridge Reservation is something of a civil war among the Indians themselves, with AIM asking that Richard Wilson, the Ogalala Sioux tribal chief, be deposed. But who is to do the deposing, the palefaces in Washington or the Sioux themselves?

With the law a mishmash, I can't get worked up about the Indians' "aggression," especially in view of the numerous Indian treaties that Uncle Sam has violated. I am mindful of a report on the Canadian Indian written by Morris C. Shumiatcher, published in Toronto by McClelland and Stewart, Ltd., under the title of "Welfare: Hidden Backlash." Everything that Mr. Shumiatcher says about the plight of the Canadian Indian would seem to apply to the U.S. Indian. When aborigines are settled on lands over which they possess no true sovereignty, a pervasive enervation follows. Who knows what the law is when one nominally owns yet does not own?

In Canada, the commissioners appointed by Queen Victoria of England set aside lands that were to provide the Indians with a "perpetual" refuge against predatory whites. But the lands resembled a "spendthrift trust." The Indians could raise cattle on their lands, but they were forbidden to sell or barter their livestock to anyone other than an Indian. Trapping was allowed to the Canadian Indian, but the skins had to be disposed of through a government agency. All of this was for the Indians' own good: the idea was to keep wicked white cattle buyers and the "monopolistic" Hudson's Bay Company from exploiting the Red Men.

As a buyer of furs, however, the government, fatally enmeshed in its own bureaucratic red tape, proved to be a very defective middle man. Moreover, the Indian trapper, who had once been able to get a decent grubstake from private fur merchants, has never been able to depend on government for financing an extended trapline.

Where the Hudson's Bay Company once extended $400 in credit for food and trapper's equipment, the government, fearful that the Indian might spend the money for firewater, has limited trapping credits to enough only for a week. Actually, by forcing the trapper to return to town at shortened intervals, the system has made for more Indian drunkenness. And when the Indians finally get their checks from the government's fur marketing service, it is seldom enough to pay for whatever has been borrowed and spent for liquor.

THE CANADIAN INDIAN lives in a world without incentive. The same must be true of the U.S. Indian. Paternalism never works. Mr. Shumiatcher, writing about a new movement in Canada, tells us of the decision of the Hobemma Indians to leave their Alberta reservation in search of a new life beyond the reach of the Indian administration or the white man's government. They have taken up claims on Alberta Crown Lands, where their young are now learning again to hunt and skin animals. In the city of Regina, an Indian company called Native Metals is converting scrap into material for building a second trans-Canada pipeline. This sort of thing is happening in Canada outside the structure of the paternalistic welfare state.

Isn't there a lesson here for the Ogalala Sioux? There is no future inside a reservation when true sovereignty is withheld from the inmates.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

A call to the grave

Oh, J. Edgar, where are you now when we need you most? This may sound like a strange complaint from one who suggested over a period of years that FBI Chief Hoover was superannuated. But when you look at the shenanigans that his successor has engaged in, you begin to wonder.

The notion, for example, that Hoover would have permitted White House Counsel John Dean to sit in on the interrogation of Watergate suspects is preposterous. He would not have permitted the President of the United States to participate! Hoover did have a thing about conspiracies — not a sparrow fell from a new left bush without his suspecting a push from Moscow, Havana, Peking or Hanoi — but in the partisan sense he was nonpolitical.

L. Patrick Gray, III, obviously took a different view of his role. Paradoxically, unlike Hoover — who wiped his feet on Attorneys General — Gray seems to have accepted Attorney General Richard Kleindienst as his boss. I say paradoxically because, like a number of other commentators, I complained for years that Hoover ran an independent barony in the Justice Department. It now appears that this very independence was the foundation of J. Edgar's non-political posture.

THE MORE GRAY TESTIFIES before the Senate Judiciary Committee, the more he sounds like bad news. My Brandeis colleague John Elliff, who did a fine study of the Justice Department in the 1960s, "Crime, Dissent, and the Attorney General" (Sage), has pointed out in testimony prepared for the Hearings on Gray's nomination that Gray has made an offer that should unnerve any civil libertarian. Presumably in a desperate effort to please, he offered to open to any Senator the entire FBI file on the Watergate investigation.

He said this voluntary offer was "unprecedented," and one can only hope that it will not become a precedent. The trouble is that for political reasons no Senator has raised any principled objections: the Democrats because they want to nail the culprits to the mast; the Republicans because they are afraid of the accusation of "covering up" the mess. But, as Elliff points out, Gray's action "raises a serious question of possible invasion of the rights of privacy of those persons about whom information, changes, rumors, and accusations appear in the reports." At the simplest level, it provides an obviously not disinterested administration with information as to who fingered whom — that is to say, the name, rank and serial number of anyone who fulfilled his legal obligation to support the criminal code.

BUT BEYOND THAT, as one who has seen a lot of "raw" intelligence reports from the FBI and other agencies (wholly in line of duty), I would argue that under no circumstances should they be brought out into the light of day. Interrogators engaged, for example, in full-field investigations of potential high officeholders do their duty: they talk to everybody who has had any relationship with the individual concerned. Naturally old grudges surface and are entered in the notebooks. However, when all the data are in the evaluation begins and most of this scurrilous nonsense is promptly discarded. Mrs. X's testimony that Mr. Y is the town drunk and flirts with little girls is readily refuted by the contributions of 15 or 20 others, one of whom has incidentally pointed out that Mr. Y. had Mrs. X's German shepherd put away after the dog had killed three of Y's Siamese cats.

If Mr. Gray is going to enter the FBI's dossiers in the public library (which is what allowing Senators access to them amounts to), he simply won't do. The Senate Judiciary Committee would do well to reject his nomination, and suggest that when he leaves, he take the Attorney General with him.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Albino buffaloes were held sacred by Indian tribes of the great plains. Whenever the braves came across one of these rare creatures, they abandoned the hunt for that day.

Our girls are getting bolder as well as liberated. A recent survey of more than 10,000 women magazine readers found that 61 per cent wouldn't hesitate to ask a man to dinner in their apartment, and 15 per cent said they were willing to initiate sex relations with their boy friends.

What is the world's most valuable painting? Experts disagree, but a likely candidate is the "Mona Lisa," painted by Leonardo da Vinci. When it was brought to this country for exhibition from the Louvre in Paris in 1962, insurance underwriters assessed its value at $100 million. But putting a price on it is like putting a price on the American Declaration of Independence. Neither is up for auction.

Our most undiagnosed malady: Only half of the 23 million Americans thought to have high blood pressure are aware of it and only about one-fifth receive adequate treatment. The disease causes at least 60,000 deaths a year in the United States from strokes, heart attacks and kidney failure. Doctors call it hypertension.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

Divorce is bad enough

DEAR ABBY: After nearly 10 years of marriage and two lovely children, my husband and I are getting a divorce.

We never washed our dirty linen in public. In fact, we had a good social life and everyone thought we were a very happy couple.

My problem: Since the news of our divorce has become public many of our friends have called to tell me how "smart" I am to call it quits. They say they have known for years that my husband was fooling around, and then they proceed to fill me in on all the sordid particulars.

What am I supposed to say? I surely can't thank them for pouring salt on my wounds with all these ugly tales. Yet, I don't know what else to say.

ACHING HEART

DEAR ACHING: Those who would pour salt on your wounds aren't friends. In the future, when someone starts to fill you in, say, "Thanks, but I'm not interested."

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are in our mid-50s. Our two children are married and on their own.

Eight years ago my wife went back to work, but I continued to carry the entire financial load. She banked most of hermoney in her own name, which was all right with me.

A few years ago I made a will, naming my wife as the sole beneficiary. I told her about it. A few weeks ago I suggested that my wife also draw up a will to avoid complicated legal procedures if, God forbid, she dies before me. She acted on my suggestion promptly and informed me that she arranged for everything to be divided equally among me and the two children.

I felt hurt. Not because of the few miserable dollars involved, but because she knew she was my sole beneficiary, and she didn't choose to make ME hers. After all, what did our children ever do for us? Nothing!

I will refrain from further comment because I feel I am badly in need of yours. Thanks.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: My guess is your wife reasoned that if you were to survive her, you'd probably marry again. And should Wife No. 2 survive you, she'd wind up with all your worldly goods, leaving nothing to your children. Since women usually survive their husbands, I am surprised you didn't apply the same reasoning.

DEAR ABBY: I too used to be annoyed with chain letters, but now I enjoy them. It gives me an excuse to write the following letter to the sender:

DEAR FRIEND,

Thanks for your chain letter. My favorite hobby is copying chain letters and mailing them off to all my friends. I also enjoy sending money to the stranger on the top of the list.

In return for your kindness, I am sending you this REVERSE chain letter. Make a copy of this letter and send it to the person whose name is above yours on the chain letter you sent to me. You must do this within 24 hours of receipt of this letter. The person receiving it must do the same within 24 hours, and if the chain is broken, the letter will eventually get back to the jackass who started this whole thing.

I urge you not to break this chain. Mr. J.V. Greedy broke the chain, and the very next day his mother-in-law came to live with him.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1920, the U.S. Senate rejected the Versailles treaty providing for a League of Nations. It was the beginning of a long period of U.S. isolationism.

In 1628, the English founded the Massachusetts colony.

In 1711, war was proclaimed between Russia and Turkey.

In 1918, New York City began a novel new experiment — Daylight Saving Time.

In 1942, during World War II, American men between the ages of 45 and 64 were ordered to register for nonmilitary duty.

In 1945, members of the Norwegian underground began a program of organized sabotage against German occupation troops.

In 1962, relative calm returned to Algeria after a ceasefire ended seven years of warfare between the French and Algerian nationalists.

Ten years ago: Algeria demanded that France negotiate on ending nuclear testing in the Algerian Sahara.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson signed a bill removing gold backing from U.S. paper currency, freeing billions of dollars to defend the dollar abroad.

One year ago: A helicopter rescued three American airmen who had been shot down during stepped-up military operations in Laos.

Today's birthdays: Gen. William Westmoreland is 59. Mrs. Charles Robb — the former Lynda Bird Johnson — is 29.

Thought for today: A man who dares to waste one hour of life has not discovered the value of life — Charles Darwin, English naturalist, 1809-1882.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Roddenberry, a quiet man with an incredible background, quit television 2½ years ago when NBC cancelled the "Star Trek" series he created.

While the series' quite vocal fans raged over the cancellation, Roddenberry wrote a few movies, got married, and, as he puts it, "played golf around the world."

But touring assorted courses proved a bit dull for a man who in his 51 years has been: A B17 bomber pilot in the South Pacific, a Pan Am pilot on DC4s and Lockheed Constellations, a Los Angeles police sergeant, and one of the most respected writers in television today.

Roddenberry's self-imposed exile from the tube ends Friday night when CBS broadcasts his "Genesis II," a 90-minute pilot he created for a proposed series. It is set in the year 2133.

Unlike "Star Trek," the new show is entirely about the planet earth, a war-ravaged planet in which civilization has collapsed and broken down into isolated communities with no links to each other.

It's a grim scene faced by the show's main character, a young NASA scientist awakened from a suspended animation test that had begun 160 years earlier and was to last only a few weeks.

Roddenberry said he was encouraged to start writing for television again because when he came out of semi-retirement "studio heads and the networks were saying, 'What have you got that's different?'

"This is the first time this has happened to me in almost 20 years in the business and I think it's going to greatly improve TV in years to come," he said.

Another factor in his return to television, he said, was that "I discovered, to my absolute consternation, that playing golf seven days a week wasn't really as much fun as sitting behind a desk."

Roddenberry said he felt a combination of fatigue and bitterness when NBC cancelled "Star Trek" at the end of a three-year run.

"To do a show as complex as that, to work 14 hours a day for three years — you've made a huge emotional expenditure as well as a physical one," he said softly.

He grinned when asked why he was returning to the television wars.

"Well, I tried features and they were fun," he said. "But I guess there's something perverse in me that misses the afternoon crises of television.

"I think it's also common sense. How can a writer ignore a medium that hits 50 million people? You just can't."

City Board to discuss Junior High library

The City Board of Education will consider a proposal to renovate two rooms in Washington Junior High School for the purpose of expanding library facilities at its Monday night meeting.

A variety of routine matters will also receive the Board's attention, including the enrollment of three teachers in graduate courses, investment of interim money and a request by the Parent Teacher Association for the use of a school bus.

Ohio perspective

Drug program no big success

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's first effort to register drug treatment programs would have to be classified as something less than successful.

The General Assembly enacted a law last July that requires the registration of all organizations that treat drug addicts in Ohio.

Out of about 240 such organizations the Bureau of Drug Abuse says are operating in Ohio, only 58 responded to a bureau request for registration data.

No one was trying to hide anything. BUDA blundered when it sent out its registration questionnaires.

"It went out as a fourth-class mailing just before Christmas," BUDA chief Mel Zwissler said "Nobody caught it. We've got organizations that are still calling in here looking for it."

It doesn't make too much difference, because the law requires two registrations each year and another questionnaire will be mailed out this June, Zwissler said.

When BUDA finally gets statewide data, it will use it in an effort to find out how many addicts are being treated, what is being done for them, and how effective the programs are.

The bureau's job is to keep track of what both public and private drug agencies are doing and provide them with training and other consultant-type services.

When BUDA knows more about the state's drug programs, Zwissler said, it will also set some standards for the services they provide.

Ultimately BUDA hopes to have better information on which programs are most effective in helping addicts to overcome their dependency on drugs.

Zwissler said the 58 drug programs that have reported to BUDA claim that 30 per cent of the addicts they treated have been successfully rehabilitated.

But he said BUDA eventually will check the agencies' own claims with state evaluations.

Zwissler said BUDA soon will be designated by Gov. John J. Gilligan to coordinate development of a state anti-drug plan.

The bureau already has prepared a directory of all agencies, public and private, in Ohio which treat addicts. The directory will be made available to school counselors, parole officers, police, hospital emergency rooms and others who might be asked where drug treatment is available.

Chapters observe birthdays with luncheon at Valley House

Alpha Gamma Chapter, of Delta Kappa Gamma entertained the members of Alpha Delta Chapter of Washington C. H. and Fayette County at a luncheon, Saturday noon at the Valley House in Chillicothe. The occasion was the annual joint celebration of the birthdays of the two chapters which were both founded in March, 1939. Since their organization, it has been the custom for the two chapters to alternate as hostesses for their chapter birthdays. Delta Kappa Gamma is an organization of women whose members are or have been educators or have made worthwhile contributions to education.

The Delta Kappa Gamma colors of crimson and gold were used in the decorations. Bowls of red roses, the Delta Kappa Gamma flower, centered each table at which places were marked with red rose corsages. The hand-decorated place cards also featured a single red rose. The focal point at the head table was a lamp of knowledge, one of the symbols on the pin and crest of the organization, brought to the Chillicothe Chapter from Morocco by Mrs. Ruth Minshall, one of their charter members.

The traditional birthday cake was the last course. Before it was served Mrs. Edward Kuntzman, president of Alpha Gamma, asked the group of 65 to join in singing Happy Birthday, celebrating their thirty-fourth birthday.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Kuntzman welcomed the 28 guests from the Washington C. H. - Fayette County Chapter and introduced Mrs. Karl Harper, vice-president of Alpha Delta Chapter. She responded to the welcome and introduced Mrs. Frank Mayo, the first president of Alpha Delta, and other charter members present, the past presidents and the others attending. Mrs. Kuntzman then made the introductions for her chapter.

Mrs. Gerturde Higby, vice-president and program chairman of the Chillicothe Chapter, introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Lee Stephenson of Columbus, the first vice-president of the Ohio organization of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society. The Washington - Fayette County members were especially happy to see and hear Mrs. Stephenson as she, a number of years ago, was a teacher of home economics in Washington High School. She will be remembered as Miss Helen Davis and she still has many friends here.

Mrs. Stephenson entitled her talk "Where Do We Go from Here?" Among the many worthwhile thoughts she left with her listeners was the reminder that they are members of a society dedicated to worthwhile purposes and that they should not overlook opportunities to interest outstanding women in education in the work of Delta Kappa Gamma by organizing new chapters as well as by encouraging the active participation of present members in the work of their chapters. She also emphasized the value derived from attending regional, state and national Delta Kappa Gamma conventions. She feels that it is at these conventions that members have the best opportunities to understand their heritage in this international organization which was founded May 11, 1929.

Mrs. Stephenson closed her talk by reminding her listeners that, in this era of change, Delta Kappa Gamma members have, in her opinion, a duty to emphasize in their work with young people the basic principles that have guided the development of so many men and women whom time has proved worthy of honor and admiration.

Holy Rosary Church setting for wedding

Miss Linda Susan Coffey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Coffey, Rt. 4, became the bride of Charles A. Turner III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Turner, of Bexley, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Thomas Farley performed the double-ring ceremony in the chapel of Holy Rosary Church in Columbus before the altar adorned with two large vases of mixed spring flowers.

The Franciscan Singers presented contemporary song selections.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Coffey wore a formal length, white satin A-line gown with empire waist, short chapel-length train, scoop neckline and fitted sleeves. Floral lace enhanced the neckline, sleeves and waist. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies with yellow centers, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Miss Nancy Worrell, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, maid of honor, wore a formal length mint green A-line gown with empire waist. The high neckline, bell sleeves and waist were trimmed with white lace featuring small green flowers. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow daisies.

Ralph H. Rosenblum Jr., DDS, of Newport, R. I., was the best man.

Mrs. Coffey chose for her daughter's wedding a street length yellow double knit suit with rose corsage and black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a street-length light blue dress with matching vest, light blue accessories and a rose corsage.

Hostesses for the reception in the home of the groom's parents were Diana Angela and Theresa Turner, sisters of the groom.

Following a wedding trip to the Hudson River Valley in New York state and through the New England states, the couple will reside at 199 E. Whittier St., in German Village, Columbus.

Brant getting scarce; hunting is prohibited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brant are getting so scarce on the east coast that Nathaniel P. Reed, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, expects the hunting season will be closed for at least two more years.

Estimates are that these little geese have dropped from 200,000 in the late 1960s to about 40,000, the smallest number in a quarter of a century. The decrease has been blamed on poor nesting seasons in the Canadian Arctic.

CREAM PUFFS are filled with a delicious custard-like vanilla cream.

Custard Creations

Simple and Simply Superb

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

THAT nutritious, delicious and easy-to-make dessert, the custard, was an English discovery, made by boiling or baking a mixture of milk, eggs and sugar. The French adopted the idea but eventually added some gelatin to the eggs and also some cream, resulting in Vanillia Bavarian Cream. Later the Spaniards introduced the use of caramel sauce and became famous for their baked caramel custards.

Surprisingly, the custards of all cuisines have one thing in common — the flavor of vanilla. It has a special affinity for milk, cream and eggs, blending with their natural flavors, yet not overpowering them. The success secret, of course, is to use pure extract of vanilla. Imitation vanilla not only lacks authentic flavor but is often too strong and dominating.

Soft custard can be a dessert in itself, or it can be the topping for fruits, puddings, pies or slices pound cake

VANILLA SOFT CUSTARD

1-3 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon flour
2 eggs, lightly beaten
1½ cups milk
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract

Combine the sugar, salt and flour in a heavy saucepan or the top part of a double boiler. Blend in eggs. Add milk and cook over low heat or hot water until the mixture coats a metal spoon, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla extract. Chill. Serves 4.

The filling for these cream puffs uses essentially the same kind of ingredients as do custards.

CUSTARD-FILLED CREAM PUFFS

1 cup water
½ cup butter
1 cup all-purpose flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons pure vanilla extract
4 eggs
Custard Cream Filling
¼ cup confectioners' sugar

In a medium saucepan combine water and butter; bring to boiling point. Vigorously stir in flour and salt. Cook and stir over low heat for 1 minute or until mixture forms a ball. Remove from heat.

Place dough in the large bowl of an electric mixer. Beat in vanilla extract. Then beat in eggs, one at a time; beat until mixture is smooth.

Drop dough by the ¼ cupsful, 3-inches apart, onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated hot oven (400 F.) for about 35 minutes or until puffs are golden. Cool on racks.

Mead Corp. expects earnings improvement

DAYTON — Mead Corporation expects its first quarter earnings to be substantially improved over the comparable period of 1972. A projected improvement of approximately 70 per cent in first quarter earnings has been made by J. W. McSwiney, chairman of the board.

"We estimate our earnings for the first quarter of 1973 will be in the range of $7.4 million to $7.7 million, or $.33 to $.36 per share," McSwiney said.

In the first quarter of 1972 Mead earned $4.4 million before extraordinary items, or 14 cents per common share. First quarter extraordinary items in 1972 added 3 cents per common share.

The improved profits are the result of several factors. Continued high demand for lumber and pulp has helped to maintain high operating levels for Mead's forest product affiliates, British Columbia Forest Products (BCFP) and Northwood Pulp and Timber. Strong demand for paperboard and containers has resulted in higher earnings in the paperboard group compared to the first quarter of 1972.

IN ADDITION, Mead Paper showed greater profitability as a result of an improved mix of product sales and higher efficiency at its mills. Mead's new pulp and paper complex in Escanaba, Mich., which operated at a pre-tax loss of approximately $9 million in 1972, is continuing to improve its operation.

Escanaba management and its suppliers expect to resolve the air pollution problem which has hampered operation of the new pulp mill there by September 1973. Based on present forecasts, Escanaba will be operating at profitable levels in the third quarter, the Mead official said.

The Stanley Furniture Co., a part of Mead Interiors, showed significant profit gains in 1972, and backlogs of customer orders continue at record levels.

Within the Mead Metals and Minerals group, coal and coke operations are running substantially ahead of last year. The company's blast furnaces near Birmingham were phased out on Jan. 27, in line with plans announced at the end of 1972. The Soil Pipe division improved in the first quarter of 1973 from the levels achieved in the last half of 1972, McSwiney said.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Plans to construct a new mill near Stevenson, Ala. for the manufacture of paperboard corrugating medium have been announced jointly by George C. Wallace, governor of Alabama, and James W. McSwiney, chairman and chief executive officer of Mead Corporation.

Gov. Wallace said the state of Alabama welcomes Mead and the opportunity its investment affords the citizens of Alabama in employment and economic benefits.

The multi-million dollar mill will produce 650 tons of corrugating medium per day and employ around 200 people when completed, McSwiney said. Groundbreaking is set for next month and the mill is expected to start operation at the end of 1974.

Saskatchewan lab busy testing soil samples

SASKATOON (AP) — Director J. W. Hamm says the Saskatchewan soil testing laboratory is getting busier. The laboratory, located at the University of Saskatchewan, processed 5,894 samples in the 1972 fall testing period compared with 2,801 in 1971.

The laboratory analyses soil samples sent in by farmers and gives advice about the use of fertilizers to overcome nutrient deficiencies for specific crops.

Following adjournament of the business session, Press Alexander, of Clinton County, showed slides of scenes he made in Austria in 1970.

Tom McMillan and Herbert Peterson, of Clinton County, and Norman Schiering, of Fayette County, were elected to the board for three-year terms.

Schiering was appointed to fill out the term of Stanley Dray, when he resigned.

Other members of the board are Gene Gustin, of Fayette County, Ben Terrell, of Clinton County, and Leslie Laird and Bernard Conway, of Madison County.

When the board reorganized, Terrell was named president to succeed Laird, and Gustin was named vice president to succeed McMillan.

RONALD RATLIFF, manager of the association which serves Fayette, Madison, and Clinton counties, reported that there are approximately 800 Federal Land Bank borrowers in the three counties last year and that loans outstanding now total approximately $28.5 million.

That, he said, was an increase of 50 borrowers and an increase of 17 per cent in the amount of loans outstanding.

The report showed 287 loans to Fayette County farmers totaling $10,533,000; to 300 Clinton Countians totaling $8,200,000 and to 210 Madison County farmers totaling $8,500,000.

Alexander said in narrating his slides that farming in Austria is different from that in the United States in many ways. The cropland is divided so each farm has good, fair and not-so-good land, he said. Crops are principally hay, potatoes, sugar beets and some barley. Livestock is raised in confinement, he said, adding that vineyards grow on the mountains.

Alexander stayed in Austria with the family which had spent some time with the Alexander family in Clinton County several years ago.

The meeting of approximately 200 Land Bank borrowers was held in the Mahan Building following a smorgasbord luncheon.

Sergio Mendes to give concert in Columbus

Sergio Mendes, the Latin American music man, and his Brasil '77 will appear on stage at the Ohio Theatre in Columbus at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 22, with new personnel, new sound and new numbers.

Mendes switched titles from "Brasil '66" to "Brasil '77" to signalize the changes in his group since his first triumphant impact on the U.S. public.

The group's current style is quite a departure from the original sound. Pop ditties like "The Look of Love" have given way to a unique brand of Brazilian folk music. Mendes' new album "Live Roots: Brasil '77" is a mixture of native Latin ans soft rock rhythms, topped with mysterious Portugese lyrics.

Show tickets are now available at Downtown Drugs, 211 E. Court St. or in Columbus at Central Ticket Office, Neil House lower arcade.

VA hospital sets workshop

A one-day workshop, "Clients and Communities: Sharing Needs and Resources," is being sponsored by Chillicothe Veterans Administration Hospital on March 23 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Recreation Hall, Building 9.

Representatives from health and social welfare agencies from Ross, Pike, Highland, Fayette and Pickaway Counties are being extended an invitation. Approximately 150 persons will attend.

VA staff and representatives from community agencies will participate in the program. The workshop will give guidelines on how community agencies and the Chillicothe VA Hospital can deal with veterans and the resources which are available.

The development of this reciprocal relationship will assist the veteran patient to maintain the highest possible level of mental, physical and social functioning in the community as well as assist his family.

Adult Scouters receive awards

Two adult Scouters of the Paint Creek Valley District received the Silver Beaver Award for outstanding service to the Boy Scout program at ceremonies Saturday evening in the Lausche Building at the Ohio State Exposition Center.

Clarence Cooper, 214 Ogle St., Washington C.H., and Vernon R. Young, of Hillsboro, were among the 11 accorded the coveted award, one of the highest attainable by an adult Scouter. (The Paint Creek Valley District includes Fayette and Highland counties.)

Cooper has been active in the Scout program for 16 years and Young for 26 years.

So far as kown, only four other men here hold the Silver Beaver Award. They are Marvin Thornburg, Donald E. Wood, Joseph O'Brien and Dewey Sheidler. All of them are still active in the program.

Three women also were honored at the recognition meeting. Mrs. Ward McCracken, of Westerville, whose husband received the Silver Beaver. Mrs. Mary Sullivan and Mrs. Anna Louise Ludaway, both of Columbus, received the Silver Fawn Award.

Maintenance work slated for highway, street crews

Routine maintenance of streets, roads and highways will occupy most of the time of work crews this week in Fayette County.

Gene Fitzpatric, Fayette County superintendent for the Ohio Department of Highways, said the state crews will be cleaning equipment used to remove snow from highways during the weekend. The department is also preparing for an inspection of equipment to be held April 17.

Other work this week includes sealing of cracks on Ohio 734, west of Jeffersonville, and on Ohio 41, south of Washington C.H.

Fitzpatric said the state crews also will be working on berms and, if time permits, will construct a culvert on U.S. 729, north of Jeffersonville.

COUNTY ENGINEER Charles P. Wagner said county crews will continue work on Railroad Street in Jeffersonville and will be working on a drainage project on Upper Jamestown Road. Other work includes cutting brush, and working on culverts on the Fishback Road.

City street crews, under Acting Superintendent Bill Duncan, will be cleaning and patching streets and widening the intersection of Washington Avenue and Elm Street.

Weekend Ohio road crashes claim lives of 11 persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Mason High School girls, killed Sunday in a fiery accident near Monroe, were among the 11 weekend fatalities reported by the Ohio Highway Patrol.

The weekend traffic watch begins on Friday at 6 p.m. and continues until midnight Sunday.

The patrol said the car carrying the three girls apparently went out of control over a hillock and down an embankment hitting a tree and bursting into flames. It occurred on Butler-Warren County Line Road.

The fire burned the bodies beyond recognition, according to Dr. Garret J. Boone, Butler County coroner. After dental records were checked the three were identified as: Melanie Webster, 16, Kimberly Eickenhorst, 15, and Barbara Echde, 15.

The highway patrol said it did not know who was driving the car at the time of the accident.

Of the other eight fatalities, three were from the Cleveland area and two from Toledo.

The dead:

Cincinnati beer empire dies out

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans are still guzzling beer at the rate of 28.2 gallons per year, but Cincinnati's once-proud beer empire on the Over-The-Rhine district is down to two breweries.

No longer does the smell of hops—akin to stewing tomotoes—scent the air.

The sounds are of traffic, carpenters rebuilding old houses and children playing...not the hiss and pop of the steam machinery nor the tinkle of the bottle shops.

The Burger Brewing Co., known for its beer and 30-year sponsorship of Cincinnati Reds baseball broadcasts, closed its doors last Thursday.

The demise leaves Cincinnati with only the Hudepohl Brewery, which will produce beer under the Burger label, and Schoenling. Wiedemann's beer is brewed across the Ohio River in northern Kentucky.

Burger officials said they had shifted to producing soft drinks.

Cincinnati's brewing industry began in 1811 with the David Embree Brewery.

With the immigration of Germans and Irish to the area from 1840 to 1860 263 breweries operated at one time or another in the city, according to the Cincinnati Historical Society.

Gradually, the dark British and Irish beers gave way to the German lager beers, which were much lighter in volume and color.

In 1919, when national prohibition began, Cincinnati had 22 breweries distributing beer in 30 states. Cincinnati's "Beer Barons" became social elite and built huge mansions in an area called "Mount Storm Park." Many still exist.

Most of the breweries closed during prohibition but others stayed open selling malt and syrups used in making "home brew."

"The trouble with home brew," said an old timer, "was everybody tried to make it too fast and too strong. Besides, it wasn't any good when you compare it with the commercial stuff."

Burger, which began as a home brewer's supply firm, switched to making home brew ingredients during prohibition, then opened as a commercial brewery in the 1930's.

"We are being crushed by might," said Edward Schoenling Jr., president and founder of Schoenling Beer.

"The big national breweries got 80 per cent of the business. They produce about 30,000 gallons per employe and we get 1,200 to 2,000 gallons.

"I told my father we were all going to go under 35 years ago but he thought I was crazy. You've got to be big with big equipment and have the money to advertise. As you advertise, so shall ye sell beer."

Arsonist-thieves being sought

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police and fire arson investigators were checking junk dealers today in an attempt to find a gang of plumbing scavengers they said started three fires Saturday night to cover thefts.

All the fires were in an empty apartment project. Firemen said the fires were started in kitchen joists after copper plumbing had been pulled out.

Damage from the fires was $5,000, but no value was placed on the pipe. Each of the three buildings had four apartments.

Congratulations, Panthers

The high school tournament trail, a heartbreak highway which leaves only three of more than 800 Ohio schoolboy basketball teams happy, ended Saturday night for Miami Trace's amazing Panthers.

Being eliminated from a high school basketball tournament brings disappointment to any team, no matter what plateau it had reached prior to defeat, but Fayette County sports enthusiasts should be very proud of Miami Trace's post-season deeds.

This year Miami Trace's basketball team, with its fine tournament showing, not only gained pride and prestige by coming only two short steps away from entering the 51st state high school basketball tournament this weekend in Ohio State's St. John Arena, but generated a special word of praise from every basketball follower in Fayette County.

MIAMI TRACE'S long tournament trek also cast a glittering reflection on the high school, its student body and administration, the fans and more importantly, the South Central Ohio League as it was the first time in many, many years SCOL had gone to the regionals.

Miami Trace's renown of 1973 is now a matter of record. But this Panther team will surely rate special mention in the future when the conversation turns to Fayette County basketball teams.

It was a surprising rise for the Panthers who owned a disappointing 5-6 record at one point during the season.

In just three short seasons, young head coach Jan Stauffer, who took over following a fine era of Panther basketball teams under Delmar Mowery's direction, guided Miami Trace to a pinnacle of prestige, recognized throughout the area.

The Panthers rebounded from a lowly 2-3 start in the 45th SCOL cage sweepstakes to win five consecutive loop contests and capture a co-championship, the first time in four years Miami Trace had finished at the top.

But the Panther players had more to prove as they won 11 straight games, the school's fifth sectional tournament title, the first under the Class AAA branch, and continued on to grab their first-ever district championship by edging eighth-ranked Chillicothe, a team which had beaten Miami Trace by seven points earlier in the season.

Miami Trace, which climaxed the season with a fine 16-7 record, then advanced to Ohio's elite "Sweet Sixteen" plateau in the tough Columbus Class AAA Regional, which has produced six of the last 10 big school state champions.

THE RAMBUNCTIOUS Panthers, who were immediately tagged with the Cinderella label, were one of a mere 16 Class AAA schools bidding for a spot in the state tournament and found themselves in a group which included two of the top 10 Associated Press-ranked basketball teams in Columbus South (No. 5) and Newark (No. 6).

Miami Trace was paired against highly-favored Columbus South, the Columbus City League champ, and put on a very respectable showing before dropping a 53-42 decision.

It was an incredible season for Miami Trace and the Record-Herald sports staff joins Fayette County in saluting this Panther team.

APPLYING THE TAG — Cincinnati Reds' reserve catcher Bill Plummer is tagged out at home plate as he tries to score on a fly ball in the fifth inning of an exhibition game between Cincinnati and Kansas City. Making the tag is Kansas City's Jerry May. Plummer had tried to score on Joe Morgan's fly to left, but the Royals' Lou Piniella made a strong throw to the plate.

Elyria stuns defending Class AAA champions

Cleveland East Tech ousted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Elyria cut short Cleveland East Tech's bid for a fourth Ohio high school basketball title with an awesome display of rebounding.

Ironically, that was the department that worried Elyria mentor Mike Riley the most before his squad stunned the defending Class AAA champions, 72-61, Sunday night in the Cleveland Regional Finals.

"I was afraid we might be intimidated playing the state champions," Riley said after the victory.

"But when we went out there and got the boards early, I began to feel good," he added.

Elyria will carry a 21-3 record against Cincinnati Elder, 18-4, in a Class AAA state semifinal game Thursday night in Ohio State's St. John Arena.

Columbus South, 21-2, the 1965 champion, opens the three-day tournament against Akron Central-Hower, 18-6, at 5:30 p.m.

The Class A semifinals Friday sends Marion Pleasant, 24-0, the small school football champion last fall, against 1968 king Mansfield St. Peter's, 23-4, at 1:30 p.m. and defending champion Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South, 24-0, against 23-1 Sebring at 3:30 p.m.

In the Class AA semifinal Friday night, Columbus Ready, 21-3, opens defense of its state title against Bellefontaine, 17-6, at 9:30 after Elyria Catholic, 24-1, and Delphos St. John, 17-7, play at 7:30.

All championship games are Saturday in St. John Arena.

Elyria completed the semifinals field by out-rebounding East Tech 47-33 in the weather-delayed Cleveland Regional championship contest.

"The game was won on the board. We have no excuses," said John Chavers, the coach of East Tech.

John Mongerson, a 6-foot-7 senior pulled down 20 rebounds and scored 14 points for Elyria, which led after every quarter. Jerry Gilbert paced the triumph with 20 points.

Lawrence Bolden, the only holdover from East Tech's 1972 championship squad was the Scarabs' scoring leader with 18 points.

The Class AAA tournament appears to be a wide open affair. Columbus Ready and Indian Valley South, with ample returnees from their 1972 title squads, are the favorites in the other two classes.

Ready, whose only setback were to Class AAA schools, has Jimmy Jones, a high scoring guard, and Chuck Seipel and Bob Cumberlander back as regulars from last year.

Meanwhile, Indian Valley, riding Ohio's longest winning streak of 50 games, has three regulars back from last year, guards Chuck McComb and Van Henry and Joel Cochran, a 6-foot-7 center.

The biggest shockers in the regional championships Saturday night were the romps by Cincinnati Elder and Mansfield St. Peter's.

Unranked Cincinnati Elder stunned seventh-rated Springfield South 71-45 at Dayton while unranked St. Peter's knocked out fourth-ranked and previously undefeated Wapakoneta St. Joseph 100-85 at Bowling Green.

Akron Central-Hower earned its third straight state semifinals berth, whipping Youngstown Mooney 62-57 at Canton and Columbus South pulled away in the second half to defeat three-time former king Newark 55-42 at Columbus.

In Class AA, Delphos St. John beat Genoa 88-67 at Bowling Green, Columbus Ready defeated Steubenville Catholic 50-48 at Steubenville, Bellefontaine eliminated Dayton Jefferson 77-67 at Dayton and Elyria Catholic ousted Youngstown North 59-45 at Copley.

In other Class A results, Indian Valley South beat fellow league member Strasburg for the second time this year 50-38 at Athens, Sebring beat Lorain Clearview 65-58 at Canton and Pleasant edged Pittsburg Franklin-Monroe 75-72 at Dayton.

WCH thinlies open season Wednesday

Seven returning veterans bolster Lion track hopes

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Washington C. H.'s track team, bolstered by seven returning letterman, will embark on a rugged season schedule Wednesday at the Central District Indoor track meet which will be held at French Field House at Ohio State University.

Head coach John Armstrong, entering his second straight season as the Blue Lion track taskmaster, has plenty of goals outlined for his charges in hopes of bettering a fine performance of a year ago.

The Blue Lion thinclads, behind the performances of three stalwarts, notched an eighth place finish in the Class AA branch of the 56th Ohio High School track meet at Columbus last spring.

IN ADDITION to the fine ranking in the state, the Washington C. H. tracksters were fourth in the Class AA Central District sectional meet and third in the always-tough South Central Ohio League event.

The nucleus of seven returning lettermen, including two stars who won honors in last season's state track meet, strengthen Washington C. H.'s hopes of improving a glittering 56-13 overall record.

Senior Brian Storm returns for Armstrong's second Blue Lion edition and will be a mainstay in the sprint events. Storm was a SCOL champion a year ago, placed second in the 100 and 220-yard dashes in the district meet and placed third in the 100-yard dash at the state track event.

The Central District Indoor meet Wednesday will match Storm and Mifflin's Larry Jackson, who topped the Blue Lion star in both the district and state meets last season.

Bob Osborne, another senior star, will head Washington C. H.'s prospects in the distance events. Osborne placed first in the 880-yard dash in the district last year and sixth in the same event at the state track meet.

OSBORNE WILL be joined in the distance events by Gary Huffman, Kevin Merritt and John Tatman, all letter-winners a year ago.

Junior Chuck Wilson, a standout in the field events, and Randy East, a sprinter, are Washington C. H.'s other returning veterans.

Armstrong, who feels the Blue Lions along with Hillsboro and Circleville will be strong contenders for the 1973 SCOL track championship, says depth may be one of Washington C. H.'s problems this season, although it's too early in the season to be sure.

Following Wednesday's Central District track meet, other tough meets on the Blue Lions' schedule include the Reynoldsburg Invitational, the annual Circleville Relays, and the Blanchester and Hillsboro invitationals.

The Lions will face several non-league toughies and all SCOL members before the annual league meet May 1-2 at Circleville.

Bobby Tolan appears well as Reds open win skein

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Tolan, who came pretty far back last season—far enough to be named Comeback Player of the Year—appears to have come back the rest of the way.

The Cincinnati Reds' center fielder, who missed the entire 1971 season with a ruptured achilles tendon in his right leg, hit .283 with 82 RBI and 42 stolen bases in 1972. "I'm hoping this year to get back to the .300 mark," he says. He batted .305 and .310 in the two years before he was hurt.

Tolan seems to be well on the way to attaining that goal. After sitting out the Reds' first five exhibition games, he broke in with a 5-for-6 showing in his first two games, including a triple and home run.

And on Sunday, he drove in two runs to lead the Reds' "B" team to a 5-0 victory over Philadelphia. The Cincinnati "A" squad made it a sweep as Joe Morgan, Dan Driessen and Dave Concepcion each had three hits and drove in two runs to lead the way to an 8-3 triumph over the New York Mets.

Ed Sprague and Mel Behney combined for the five-hit shutout that tamed the Phillies. The Reds scored twice off losing pitcher Larry Christenson in the third as Jim Driscoll, who doubled to right, and George Foster, who was hit by a pitch, scored on Tolan's double down the left field line.

Sparky eyes permanent shortstop

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The competition is on again for the job of shortstop with the Cincinnati Reds.

Manager Sparky Anderson had said earlier that he planned to continue platooning Dave Concepcion and Darrel Chaney, but now he would prefer for one of them to win it.

Sunday, both played on different teams and the National League champions took the New York Mets 8-3 at St. Petersburg, Fla. and the Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 at Clearwater, Fla.

"I'd like to have one man take control and win the job," said Anderson.

"That would be better for the second baseman—Joe Morgan— getting to play with one shortstop all the time."

Concepcion, batting .364 this spring, connected for two singles and a double driving in three runs against the Mets.

Chaney, hitting .344, had one hit, stole a base, scored a run and turned in some outstanding fielding plays against Philadelphia.

"Nobody's got better talent than Davey (Concepcion)," said Anderson. "But he's got to earn it. I gave him everything before, now, he's got to show me he can do it."

Ex-POW to throw 1st ball for Reds

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds announced today that Vietnam POW Air Force Capt. Edward Mechenbier will throw out the first ball on opening day, April 5.

The Reds meet the San Francisco Giants in the first game of the 1973 season.

Mechenbier, a native of Morgantown, W.Va., grew up in Dayton, Ohio.

Dick Weber winner of Ebonite tournament

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dick Weber of St. Louis ended a two-year dry spell by winning the $80,000 Ebonite Open bowling tournament Saturday.

His brother-in-law, Norm Meyers, would have been elated—if he hadn't been Weber's victim in the nationally-televised championship game.

A difference of $4,000 in prize money was at stake. Weber pocketed $10,000 for first place, while Meyers had to settle for $6,000 as runnerup.

Jim Colbert Jacksonville Open golf tourney victor

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jim Colbert has a strange philosophy, possibly a unique approach to the game of golf.

"My reaction to anything that happens on the golf course is no reaction," the balding little veteran said after his teetertotter triumph in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

"There are no birdies or bogeys, no eagles or double bogeys. They are only numbers. If you can get that way you can play this game. It's my way.

"I did it (won) the hard way. I kept my cool, I did not react to the adversities of the game."

He had those a plenty.

Colbert bogeyed four of his first five holes. He opened with a two stroke lead in the mild, sunny weather of the final day, then found himself four strokes behind Jimmy Wiechers after only five holes.

He regained the lead, built it to two strokes, lost it and dropped behind again, regained it in dramatic fashion and preserved it even more dramatically.

Cincinnati Swords set league mark

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Swords hold the record for most victories in a single American Hockey League Season—50—following their defeat of the Springfield Kings, 7-1, Sunday night.

Ironically, the Kings' 1960-61 squad set the old record of 42 and Swords Coach Floyd Smith was a member of that team.

Indiana to meet UCLA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I'm not ready to think about UCLA yet," says Indiana Coach Bob Knight, "...not until next week anyway."

Knight's sixth-ranked Hoosiers, who captured the National Collegiate Athletic Association Mideast Regional basketball title with a 72-65 victory over Kentucky on Saturday, have a week to figure out just how to handle a dynasty.

The Hoosiers, 21-5, move into Saturday's national semifinals at St. Louis for a match with the mighty Bruins, winners of 73 straight games—including the 54-39 West Regional championship over San Francisco—and 34 in a row in NCAA playoff competition.

"I'm glad to have a week to prepare for them rather than a couple of days," Knight said of the nation's top-ranked team.

Before that clash, though, there's an equally important matter to be settled—which team the winner will meet in the title game a week from tonight.

Preceding the UCLA-Indiana game, Ernie DiGregorio and Providence's fourth-ranked Friars, 103-89 victors over Maryland in the East Regional, face 12th-ranked Memphis State, which won the Midwest crown with a 92-72 romp over Kansas State.

On Saturday night, the Guilford, N.C., Quakers beat Maryland-Eastern Shore 99-96 for the championship of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and became the first unseeded team to win the title in the NAIA's 36 tournaments.

Tonight, meanwhile, the National Invitation Tournament's first-round play concludes in New York's Madison Square Garden with Rutgers facing Minnesota and Manhattan opposing Alabama.

In the weekend's opening-round action it was Notre Dame 69, Southern California 65; Louisville 97, American 84; North Carolina 82, Oral Roberts 65; Massachusetts 78, Missouri 71; Fairfield 80, Marshall 76, and Virginia Tech 65, New Mexico 63.

Against Kentucky, the Hoosiers blew a 13-point halftime lead and fell behind with less than eight minutes to play.

"I'm just happy that our kids didn't crack from the pressure of blowing the lead and getting behind," Knight said. "And proud that we were able to regain the momentum we had lost."

Kentucky went to a zone defense to get back in the game. Then Knight decided to move freshman Quinn Buckner from the point to the high post and the Hoosiers were on their way to St. Louis.

Tommy Curtis, the 5-foot-11 UCLA guard, came off the bench midway through the first half, with the Bruins trailing 16-7, put them on the attack and helped pull out the victory over San Francisco's 19th-ranked Dons.

UCLA Coach John Wooden expects Indiana to play at least as deliberately as San Francisco.

"I expect a conservative game," he said. "Their coach, Bobby Knight, usually has one of the top defensive teams in the nation—in statistics. But that's because they hold the ball so much."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

TUESDAY, MARCH 20

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
A successful start to a new enterprise indicated. For best results, launch at midday. The p.m. hours promise lively social activities.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
Stellar influences somewhat restrictive where finances are concerned, so watch the budget. Avoid a tendency to overspend on luxuries.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
A good day for tackling important and controversial issues. In this connection, some information coming in an unusual way should be carefully noted.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
Expect some complications due to a conflict of personalities. You can handle, however, with tact and a determination to preserve good will.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
If undecided or uncertain about accepting a financial proposition, it would be better to reject it. Your intuition won't play you false.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
A golden opportunity to put your unusual ideas across. They'll get a satisfactory hearing if presented logically.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Associates are likely to prove exasperating now. In fact, one you had counted on may try to back out of a deal. Don't YOU provide the excuse.

Don't shrug off a friend's problem. It may be more serious than you think. Rather, give him (her) your undivided attention and, if you can, your help.

Even though you rejected it at the time, a suggestion put to you some weeks ago will now prove feasible. Follow up — from a slightly different angle.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Don't put too much trust in a supposedly "confidential" report. Rumors and conjectures are likely be rife at this time.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
A complete break from normal activities could prove stimulating. Why not try out one of those creative ideas you've had in mind?

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Neptune in highly favorable position. Your intuition at a peak. Things "sensed" now will prove to be correct.

YOU BORN TODAY, a Pisces-Arien cuspal, born while the Signs were changing, have a wealth of talents which, properly developed, can lead to a happy and successful life. You have a sharp, perceptive mind and a strong sense of responsibility. You have a gift for words, which makes you a natural writer, lecturer, teacher or preacher, and your love of color and symmetry may lead you directly into the art world. Music is another fine outlet for you innate creativity and appreciation of the beautiful. Whatever career you choose, however, a strong strain of spirituality will dominate your work, and your capacity for inspiring others will be profound.

Landing site of Columbus is pinpointed

By HAROLD J. LIDIN

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — A Pulitzer prize-winning authority on Christopher Columbus has added his opinion to the lingering controversy over where the Genoan landed in Puerto Rico.

The Great Discoverer, according to his biographer Samuel E. Morison, first anchored on the west coast of Puerto Rico at a point on Anasco Bay.

Some historians have maintained that Columbus landed in the northwest corner of the island, about 12 miles above where Morison says Columbus first touched shore in Puerto Rico. A third theory holds that Columbus may have gone ashore at Boqueron, on the southwestern corner of the island.

"He couldn't possibly have gone inside Boqueron due to the reefs," Morison asserted emphatically in an interview here. "His first reef-free entry was Anasco." Columbus approached Puerto Rico from St. Croix, in the U.S. Virgin Islands and was steering a northwesterly course.

Morison had flown over the western section of Puerto Rico, accompanied by Aurelio Tio, president of the Puerto Rican Academy of History. After scanning the area from the air the 85-year-old Morison then made an on-the-ground investigation of the place where the Spaniards landed on Nov. 19, 1493.

Morison's findings agree with the theory defended by Tio. The latter's conclusions also rest upon testimony given in a 15th century court battle over the ownership of some property in the vicinity of the landing spot.

The landfall was made, according to Tio, on the northeast side of Anasco Bay at a point called "Ensenada de Rincon."

Morison's research into the Columbus landing is connected to his upcoming work entitled "Columbus — the southern voyages." The book, to be published by Oxford University Press, culminates a lifelong interest in the Columbus saga.

His impatience with historians who produce a book to "prove" a hypothesis boils over quickly when Columbus is the topic.

Spanish authors, over the centuries, have shown unflagging ability to discover "evidence" that Columbus came from Spain and not from Genoa, as has long been generally accepted.

"He came from a family with three generations in Genoa," says Morison.

Opening lead - three of hearts.

The Italian Blue team has won 14 of the last 15 world championships in which it played, but it was not ever thus.

Back in 1951, an American team composed of George Rapee, Sam Stayman, Howard Schenken, John Crawford and this writer journeyed to Naples and easily defeated the Italian team that had won the European championship that year.

The personnel of the Italian team has changed considerably since that time — only Pietro Forquet of the 1951 team has survived the change and, now in his forties, continues to annex one world championship after another.

But in 1951, when Italy participated in its first big international event, their team displayed signs of instability. Today's hand, which produced a 1,500 point gain for the Americans, occurred early in the match.

The irrepressible Crawford, sitting East, opened the bidding with a heart! South passed, for reasons unknown, and I — holding the West cards and not realizing that my dreadful hand was even better than Crawford's — also passed.

The Italian North bid two hearts, presumably showing a good hand, and South responded three notrump. Declarer made 13 tricks without breathing hard and the Italian pair scored 720 points on the deal.

Of course, North-South realized they had suffered a huge loss by failing to undertake a laydown grandslam, and that their bidding methods were not geared to dealing with phony bids.

The American pair at the other table got to the grand slam in gang-bang style. The bidding went:

North knew that South had at least 18 points for his jump rebid of two notrump and that making all 13 tricks was therefore a virtual certainty.

Why the Elderly Break Hips

Why do so many older people break their hips with a simple fall?

I am concerned about my mother who is 82 years old. How can we help to prevent such a possibility?

Mrs. P.J.G., Calif.

Dear Mrs. G.:

The bone structure of the hip joint as well as other bones of the body is more brittle and fragile in the elderly. Absorption of calcium weakens the bones and fractures occur more frequently than in the young.

It must be remembered, too, that the elderly may be less steady and may more easily trip and fall with the slightest imbalance. Their reflex protective action may be diminished and injuries result. It is surprising how often hip fractures occur even in strong, vital people who are not chronically considered "elderly." These painful fractures often take many months before they are completely healed.

Special precautions and simple safety measure in and outside of the home can prevent these injuries. Adequate lighting, handrails on steps and stairways, nonskid rugs add immeasurably to avoiding hip fractures.

Floors should not be highly polished. Objects on the floor can become obstacles. Electrical wires, grandchildren's toys and cleaning equipment are common hazards.

Comfortable house slippers should not have "slippery" sole.

The bathroom presents a real threat to the elderly. Getting in and out of the tub must be done with the greatest care. Nonskid mats can be very effective in preventing slipping in the tub. There should be one or more handrails for the aging person to grasp.

Many people now are wisely accepting the use of a non-slip cane when walking outdoors. Even in good weather small irregularities and cracks in the sidewalk or road make tripping and falling easier.

Those who are too vain to use a cane should remember that a protective cane is better used before an accident than for the many months following a hip fracture that might have been prevented.

Is it common for phlebitis to follow pregnancy?

Mrs. E. T., Maine

Dear Mrs. T.:

It is not uncommon, but fewer and fewer cases develop now that pregnancies are followed so diligently from their onset. The early recognition of phlebitis may lend itself to treatment.

The progressive enlargement of the uterus (womb) makes pressure on the veins within the pelvis, and interferes with the free flow of blood.

When stagnation of blood occurs, there is a tendency to develop both phlebitis, inflammation of the veins, and trombo-phlebitis (clotting within the vein).

Mild, regulated exercise and the absence of tobacco may help reduce the possibility of these conditions.

Patients are encouraged, following surgery and following the delivery of a baby, to be up and about to stimulate their blood circulation.

Kite flying warning issued

It's kite flying time again and the Dayton Power and Light Co. issued a warning for boys and girls to be especially careful about flying kites near electric lines.

George Winkle, Washington C.H. district manager, said that many kite flyers are using cords strengthened with steel strands. This type of cord can be especially dangerous because it makes an excellent conductor of electricity if it happens to touch an electric wire. A severe shock can result, said Winkle.

He also pointed out that conventional cords could conduct electricity on damp days. He warned kite flyers not to rescue their kites if they should become tangled in an electric line.

Blackwell suffered burns and multiple fractures of his right leg. He was rushed to the Brook Army Medical Unit here where his condition had been reported as "serious but stable."

WPAFB crowd welcomes 8 returning Viet POWs

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Sustained by what one called "our faith in God, our faith in country and our faith in fellow man," eight returned prisoners of war began getting reacquainted today with loved ones they had left behind.

The eight men from four states—all Air Force pilots—arrived at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base Sunday to joyful, tearful reunions with family and friends.

They were to undergo medical and intelligence debriefings at the base hospital before heading home. Air Force officials said initial examinations showed "all in good health."

Each of the men stepped briskly off the Air Force C-9 Nightingale tha' brought them here from Scott AFB, Ill., shook hands with two senior Air Force officers, saluted the colors, then walked to a microphone for brief remarks.

From there, it was just a few steps to the waiting arms of loved ones. General Jack J. Catton, commander of the Air Force Logistics Command a one of the welcoming officers, repeated brushed tears from his eyes as he watched the reunions along with about 300 spectators.

Col. Robert R. Sawhill, 42, of Carnegie, Pa., the ranking officer in the group was first off the plane. He called the homecoming, "the happiest day of my life."

"I want to thank all of those responsible for making this homecoming possible—our President, my fellow members in the military services, you the America people," said Sawhill, shot down Aug. 23, 1967.

Following him off the plane, listed in order of their date of capture were:

Capt. Glenn L.Myers, 32, Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 9, 1967; Capt. Gerald L. Gerndt, 30, Suring, Wisc., Aug. 23, 1967; Capt. Richard C. Brenneman, Mishawka, Ind., Nov. 8, 1967; Capt. Thomas M. Lima POW welcomed back home

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Army M. Sgt. Donat Gouin puffed steadily on a large cigar as he was officially welcomed home Sunday after five years as a Viet Cong military prisoner.

"I'm happy to be back," he said in response to greetings from a half dozen local officials during a program at the Lima Mall.

More than 1,000 persons turned out to welcome the sergeant who had returned from Ft. Knox, Ky., Saturday night. His official welcome was delayed overnight due a snow storm.

A drum and bugle corps played "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," as Gouin was escorted to the speakers platform by a color guard from the local Veterans of Foreign Ware chapter.

Mayor Christian Morris presented him a key to the city and a Proclamation declaring Sunday "Sgt. Don Gouin Day."

Chamber of Commerce President Robert Tract said Gouin would receive as gifts a supply of cigars Gouin said he had missed during captivity.

"I don't know what to say," Gouin said in response, "except thank you to my fellow Americans."

Gouin was near retirement after more than 20 years in the Army when he was captured. He is on a 90-day leave and indicated his plans for the future are uncertain.

Lost plane is sought

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP)— The Civil Air Patrol, hoping for better weather, planned to resume its search today for a small plane missing since Friday with three servicemen aboard.

The CAP said the Cessna 172 single-engine private plane left Ft. Eustis, near Williamsburg, at 6:18 p. m. Friday on a nonstop flight to Roanoke. There has been no word on it since.

Officials at Ft. Eustis said the plane was piloted by Pvt. Richard W. Buckert, 21, of Monmouth, Ill. The passengers were identified as Pvt. Frederick W. Gottel, 20, of Parma, Ohio, and Pvt. William G. Lancaster, 21, of Rochester, Ind.

All were assigned to Co. A at Ft. Eustis.

High winds and cloudy skies hampered fruitless search efforts Saturday and Sunday, a CAP spokesman said.

The spokesman said Sunday the CAP is "following up a lead in Pittsylvania County" south of here, but declined to elaborate. It also was reported the CAP was checking on leads in Franklin County southwest of Roanoke.

Legion opposes amnesty, Hughey Post speaker says

The American Legion is strongly opposed to amnesty for the men who fled the country to avoid the draft during the Vietnam War, Donald L. Gruenbaum, of Marysville, national vice commander, emphasized in his address at the Paul H. Hughey Legion Post 25 birthday dinner here Saturday night.

He pointed out that the Legion has spent much time and effort to get the Vietnam prisoners of war released and back home and commented that it has endorsed the way their release and return has been handled by the military and by the Nixon administration. The American Legion, he said, will lend a hand to returning veterans by helping them with employment and educational opportunities.

He declared that the organization "always has been and will continue to be, a staunch advocate of the maintenance of such military strength as is necessary to insure security and freedom of the American people, and it has no intention of retreating from this position, no matter how unpopular it may become." Obviously, the reference was to the anti-war demonstrations during the war in Southeast Asia.

MORE THAN 150 Legionnaires and their wives attended the 54th birthday anniversary dinner in the Post 25 home. Commander Ed Warning presided for the after-dinner program.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. William E. Williams, president of the Post auxiliary.

One of the highlights of the evening came with the recognition given the winners of the Legion-sponsored Americanism and Government Essay Contest by Commander Warning. Six of them were from Washington Senior High School — Jill Williams, David Mustine, Keith Stimpert, Ann O'Malley, Steve Hill and Kathy Binzel — and six from Miami Trace High School — Gerald Reid, Jo Lynn Rapp, Lora Brooks, David Louis, David Foster and Susan Thacker, a district winner. Most of those at the meeting were accompanied by their parents.

Among the guests introduced by Hargis Ramey were Past State Commander Roger Smith and Past District Commander Dudley Radcliff, both of Circleville and Charles Harris, finance officer of Homer Lawson Post 653 here. Gene Ladrach, of Washington C.H., and Jim Cleveland, of Chillicothe vice presidents, represented the district. Most of them also were accompanied by their wives.

Following the benediction by the chaplain, the Rev. Cloyce Copley, there was dancing in the club room.

GI returns as freed POW; army eyes desertion claim

FT. KNOX, Ky. (AP) — "It's been a long time...and it's good to know somebody cares," freed POW Spec-4 Michael P. Branch told a welcoming crowd as he returned to his native Kentucky after almost five years in captivity.

The slim, dark-haired Highland Heights native touched down briefly at Louisville's Standiford Field before boarding a helicopter for Ireland Army Hospital at Ft. Knox, where he was to undergo medical checks and debriefing starting today.

"I don't really know what to say, but I'm glad to get back home," the 25-year-old soldier said, "I came all the way from the Phillipines to see a crowd of people and know that they care. It's good to know somebody cares. God bless you.

When he landed at Ft. Knox, he was greeted with hugs by two brothers and a sister. He ignored a microphone set up for him to address a crowd of about 60 persons who showed up, and went inside the Army hospital to rejoin the rest of his family.

His mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Branch, and his three brothers and three sisters had come to the base from their home in northern Kentucky earlier in the day.

Other members of Ft. Thomas, her husband John, and three of their children, were also on hand to greet the returning soldier.

Branch's wife, Mrs. Marilyn L. Branch of Indianapolis, is not scheduled to meet Branch until Thursday. The couple has two children.

Branch is among is among eight former prisoners of war whose names have been linked to antiwar statements and messages. He allegedly was identified by Radio Hanoi as sending a message saying he was a deserter from the U.S. Army.
